

GOVERNOR DR. SNOOK'S LAST HOPE

WASHINGTON FEELS PESSIMISTIC OVER NAVAL CONFERENCE

Failure Of Chaunteps
Government Blow To London Hopes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Pessimism of deepest hue was apparent in Washington today over the state in which the London naval conference has fallen.

While administration leaders, presumably reflecting President Coolidge's views, either kept silent or expressed vague hopes that some miraculous way may yet be found to get the conference back on the main track, others were more or less openly expressing the opinion that it is now obvious that the parley has failed or will fail of its chief purpose—naval reduction—and that such being the case the American delegates might as well pack up and come home.

The collapse of the Chaunteps government admittedly constitutes another severe blow for the conference, not only because it necessitates further delay, but also because it spells the return of a French delegation to London strongly Nationalistic in spirit and policy, and prepared to back to the hilt the Tardieu program.

So long as M. Chaunteps, a leader of the left, was endeavoring to impose his government, the conference hopes were somewhat buoyed up by the prospect of a more tractable French policy. The French chamber was not so wedded to the big navy policy as M. Tardieu and his Nationalist followers. But with the defeat of Chaunteps even his hopes have fled.

There remains in prospect, consequently, nothing but the return of a French delegation to London more strongly committed than ever to the big program which M. Tardieu insisted upon, and which almost wrecked the parley when it first presented several weeks ago.

In some quarters it is held that a re-power treaty is now out of the question. There has always been doubt as to whether this could be accomplished anyway, and the French governmental flip-flop and confusion has only served to increase the doubt.

There is small relief in Washington, particularly in the senate, of a three-power treaty embracing Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

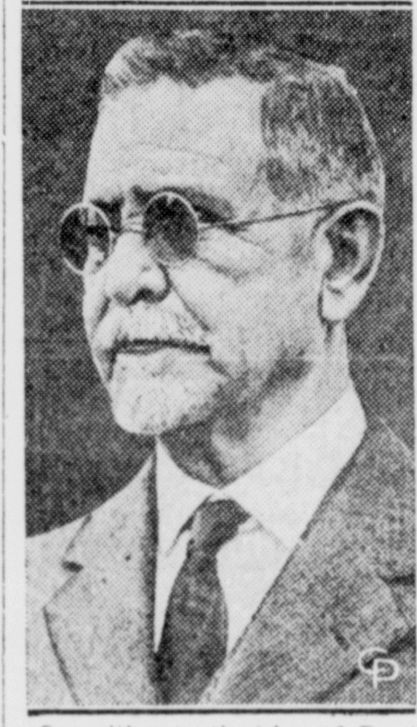

For one thing, it is well known that Britain will enter no such act without a contingent clause which will permit her to increase her navy commensurately with the French building. And the French program, insisted upon by M. Tardieu, calls for a French navy of 25,000 tons by 1936.

If American parity with the British is to be maintained—and that is a point upon which the senate is unanimous—then the United States must have to build 25,000 tons ship for ship, and the obvious result would be greater armaments all around instead of smaller.

What then, ask the conference critics, becomes of the much-vaunted "real reduction" which President Hoover and Premier Ramsay MacDonald spoke so glowingly about in Washington last October?

NAVAL PILOT KILLED DURING MANEUVERS; BODY NOT RECOVERED

REBELLION FLARES

Opposition to the plan of President Horacio Vasquez, of the Dominican Republic, above, for reduction of fleet in May, has stirred outbreaks in several sections of the island nation, according to reports to Washington, where the possibility of the dispatching of marines to the scene is being predicted. In 1916 marines were sent to preserve order. They were withdrawn in 1924.

BLAME FUR THIEVES FOR SERIES OF FOX POISONINGS IN OHIO

Silver Fox Raisers Suffer More Than $100,000 Loss.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—A dragnet was spread over four northern Ohio counties today for a gang of fox thieves who are believed to be responsible for the series of silver fox poisonings that have caused losses estimated at more than $100,000 to raisers in the last month.

In the belief that the gang of fox thieves may be operating out of Cleveland, fox raisers in Portage, Summit, Geauga, and Medina Counties have appealed to local authorities for aid in running down the criminals.

Seventeen silver foxes, valued at $100,000 have been poisoned in the last four weeks from the farm of Dr. John H. McGilvray of Kent, O. The bodies of the animals minus the pelts, were discovered near Akron. Investigation, according to Dr. McGilvray, showed that the foxes had been fed strychnine-coated meat.

Dr. Frank Kent, Akron fox raiser, reported to authorities that late last month his caretaker heard a disturbance in the fox pens. By the time he arrived on the scene fourteen of the foxes had been poisoned. Frightened away by the caretaker's approach, the fox thieves failed to have time to skin the animals, however.

Other poisonings have been reported from Chardon and Kenton, according to police.

MONARCHISTS BEING TRIED IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—The trial of twenty-six Russian monarchists accused of counter-revolutionary activities dating back to 1905 began at Ivanovo today.

The men are accused by the Bolsheviks of suppressing a revolt in that year, and of causing the arrest and severe punishment of two revolutionary leaders who later held high posts in the Soviet government.

CIVIL WAR HERO IS KILLED BY AUTO

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—Joseph O. Gregg, 89, a Civil War veteran, who was awarded the congressional medal of honor for bravery during the battle of Richmond, had his life cut short last night when he was struck by an automobile during a rain storm.

The Rev. Lewis P. Speaker, pastor of the first English Lutheran Church, was said to have been the driver of the "death car." Gregg was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital to which Rev. Speaker had taken him.

Ensign Lost When Plane Collapses Above Water

By WILLIAM PARKER
I. N. S. Special Correspondent
(Copyright 1930, by I. N. S.)
ABOARD U. S. S. TENNESSEE, VIA BALBOA, CANAL ZONE, Friday, Feb. 21.—(Delayed in Transmission)—Ensign W. McMullen, U. S. N. R., was instantly killed today in a spectacular aerial accident while "enemy" planes from the airplane carrier U. S. S. Saratoga made a bombing "attack" on her sister ship, the U. S. S. Lexington.

McMullen, who lived at Detroit, Mich., flew at the Cleveland air races last year as a member of the "high hats," a noted flying squadron.

From a height of 5,000 feet, McMullen put his plane into a vertical dive and dropped in the direction of the forward part of the Lexington at an estimated speed of between 250 and 300 miles an hour.

At an altitude of 300 feet, McMullen pulled his plane sharply out of the dive. When his ship reached a position of about 45 degrees from the vertical, the plane suddenly disintegrated. After the wings and the tail surface of the plane broke into small bits, the fuselage did a half roll and plunged into the sea with its engine turning at high speed.

After an intensive but unsuccessful search for McMullen's body, the destroyer Pruitt rejoined the fleet.

After the completion of two weeks of intensive and secret war maneuvers, the battle fleet as the "enemy" was preparing to attack the western entrance of the Panama Canal. The fleet was proceeding in battle formation with the submarines in the vanguard, while the destroyers were throwing a protective smoke screen about other craft in the fleet.

Land forces are prepared to meet the "attack" of the battle fleet and both sides are depending upon airplanes to "spot" each other and direct firing.

During the maneuvers last year the "enemy" fleet theoretically destroyed the canal. The results of the "battle" this year will not be determined until after a complete check of the report has been made by navy and army authorities.

POLICE SEEK DEATH MOTIVE

Mother Of Slain Bride Quizzed

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—Authorities today cast about for a motive for the murder of Mrs. Evelyn Edgington, 19-year-old bride, who was found dead in bed yesterday morning with her throat slashed.

Police are seeking the father of the girl in hope that he may be able to shed some light on a motive for the killing of the woman.

Mrs. Alice Francisco, Dayton restaurant employee, was quizzed by police yesterday, but she could give no reason for the slaying of her daughter.

Lawrence Edgington, 20, the husband of the slain girl, was questioned by police yesterday also, but was later released as it was definitely established that he was at work all night. He is employed in a local oil cloth company and draws a salary of $22 a week.

It was learned that Mrs. Edgington screamed about midnight, but that the only clew police could find. She was believed to have been murdered at that time.

DAMAGE TO JEWELS HAS DOUBLED LOSS

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 26.—Officials of the Frank Herschede Jewelry Company, which was entered by burglars sometime during the week end, today announced that the loss was $200,000. The stolen gems were at first valued at $100,000. Considerable damage was done to other jewelry in the ultra-exclusive shop by the force of the explosion, which resulted when the vaults were dynamited.

EX-OFFICIAL DIES
CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—Funeral arrangements were being completed here today for Jacob M. Crawford, 64, former managing clerk in the city law department, who died at a hospital late yesterday after a prolonged illness.

CONJURER'S DAUGHTER TRICKS DAD

Between performances while playing an engagement at Cincinnati, Jane Thurston, 19-year-old daughter of Howard Thurston, slipped out of the theater to obtain a marriage license with Harry Harris of Pittsburgh, and to wed without the knowledge of her magician father. The couple is shown, above, at Cincinnati, after Jane's mother had broken the news to the noted conjurer.

COLUMBUS CAR CONDUCTOR IS KILLED IN HOLD-UP ATTEMPT

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—A police dragnet was thrown over Columbus today for a man, who shot and killed Charles S. Barrow, 20, a street car conductor, during what police believe was an attempted holdup.

The shooting occurred last night when the car reached the end of the line of the north end here. The conductor's assailant, the sole passenger in the car, escaped.

Roy Morgan, the motorman of the trolley, told police that he heard the assailant and the conductor argue heatedly. He then heard a shot.

"I thought it was a torpedo someone had put on the rail at first," he said. "Then I looked around and saw Charlie on the floor of the rear platform with his head lying across the step into the inside of the car."

Morgan told authorities that he stopped the car as soon as possible and then went to the aid of his fallen co-worker. He said Barrow groaned once and then died.

Two men were taken into custody almost immediately following the robbery, but they were released after five hours of questioning.

Barrow's pocketbook was missing, but his money changer remained undisturbed, so it is believed that the robbery was partly successful. The loot, however, is believed to be very small. It is estimated it could not have been more than $25.

HANNAH BOUND OVER IN CHILD STEALING CASE

Formal Charge Made To Halt Habeas Corpus Action

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 26.—Charged with child-stealing in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Melvin Horst, Charles Hannah was arraigned in probate court here today.

The four-year-old youngster waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury.

Bond was fixed by Judge U. S. Saunders at $10,000, in default of which Hannah was remanded to the county jail.

This official action today was a perfunctory move, to forestall habeas corpus proceedings which were instituted at Akron yesterday by Hannah's attorney.

Sheriff Clark Shearer will take the child-stealing papers to Akron this afternoon. Meanwhile, the habeas corpus proceedings will be held in abeyance, according to assurances which were given to Prosecutor Marion Gravenor by the telephone, following Hannah's arraignment here.

REMORSEFUL THIEF CHOOSSES SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Remorseful because he had resorted to robbery to pay his board bill after losing his position, Everett Nelson, 20, shot himself in the chest here today and collapsed on the street.

BOTH POINCARE AND TARDIEU REFUSE TO FORM NEW CABINET

French Government Crisis Becomes More Muddled

PARIS, Feb. 26.—The French cabinet crisis was more hopelessly muddled than ever today when both M. Poincare and M. Tardieu announced their refusal to accept offers from President Doumergue to form a new cabinet.

Shortly after M. Tardieu had been asked to take over the difficult task of forming the new government and had refused, M. Poincare was called to the Palace Elysee to confer with the president. Upon entering the palace, however, M. Poincare made the following statement to newspapermen:

"I will refuse because of the state of my health."

President Doumergue will now have to turn to one of the other leaders prominently mentioned for the premiership unless either M. Tardieu or M. Poincare change their mind.

His next choice, it is generally believed, will be Aristide Briand. However, due to the prevalent indications that M. Briand would have little success of obtaining a majority in the chamber unless the force of his vigorous personality was sufficient to break down party prejudices, Tardieu's refusal is construed in some political circles merely as a technical one.

When he was defeated ten days ago, Tardieu made it known he would not again accept the premiership until all his political foes had tried their hand at cabinet formation. He wishes it to be demonstrated fully that no one else in the republic at present is capable of forming a ministry capable of obtaining a durable majority.

M. Poincare left the palace at one o'clock and told newspapermen again he had refused to take over the task of forming a cabinet. "I will do everything to facilitate the task of M. Tardieu," he said, "but I will not form a government," he said.

Poincare is expected to confer shortly with Tardieu, who in all probabilities will begin to sound out eligibles for a new ministry without the formality of calling upon President Doumergue.

ONE KILLED IN POLICE DUEL

Second Escapes After Battle

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.—James Owens, 24, of Los Angeles, was shot and critically wounded and an unidentified companion escaped in a running duel with Policeman John Hooper here today.

Hooper charged the men were attempting to change license plates on an automobile, parked in a downtown street, and that the man who escaped opened fire when ordered to halt.

The patrolman returned the fire. Owens crumpled to the ground, wounded in the abdomen and right arm. The other man also was wounded. Hooper believes, as he faltered while fleeing from the scene.

Owens was taken to Mercy Hospital where attaches said his condition was critical.

Owens, enroute to the hospital in a police ambulance, told officers that Hooper was the "greatest cop I ever saw."

NORTHERN OHIO FOG HALTS AIR TRAVEL

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—Dense fog blanketed northern Ohio early today, almost paralyzing airplane travel and impeding land traffic considerably.

One plane, carrying fourteen passengers, a pilot and mechanic, was forced down to an emergency landing near Vermilion late yesterday by a blinding fog. The landing was executed safely without damage to the plane or injury to its occupants, by Leon Sherrick, the pilot who recently established a 28-minute flying record between Cleveland and Detroit.

FILLING STATION ATTENDANT HELD-UP SECOND TIME; GET $30

For the second time within four weeks Henry Wilson, night attendant at the S. Detroit St. branch service station of the Cities Service Oil Co. was held up shortly after 8 o'clock Tuesday night by two youthful, unmasked bandits, who forced the attendant into a rear room and rifled the cash register of $30 in cash and an equal amount in checks.

Wilson told police that the two men walked into the station, one brandishing a revolver and after compelling him to enter a back room, walked away through a rear door. They first cautioned the attendant not to look out of the

SHOOTS FROM BED

Twenty-seven bullet scars on the wall of a room in a Chicago hospital tell the story of a gun battle waged between Frank McErlane, notorious as Chicago's toughest gangster, and three racketeers who entered his room and shot at him as he lay with his plaster-encased leg in the air. McErlane, who had been in the hospital for a month, had secreted a gun underneath his pillow and opened fire on his attackers as they entered.

FREAKISH STORMS SWEEP PITTSBURGH AND RIVERS RISING

Snow, Rain, Lightning Experienced; Wind Also Felt

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.—Pittsburgh residents awoke today to murky skies, driving rains and chill winds in the wake of two storms—one a freakish snow, rain and lightning affair—which swept over western Pennsylvania within the past forty-eight hours.

Rapidly rising rivers in the tri-state district brought considerable concern to Riverside dwellers today. The juncture of the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers, forming the Ohio River and marking the apex of Pittsburgh's "golden triangle," reported a river stage of more than twenty feet with the rise continuing as a result of the rains.

Weather bureau officials today predicted a stage of twenty-two feet, three feet under flood stage, before daylight.

Heavy winds which accompanied the rains during the night added to the damage already wrought although, unlike Monday night's electrical storm, no fatalities were reported. The storm of Monday evening claimed the lives of two men, one of whom was drowned and the other electrocuted by coming in contact with a fallen live wire.

In addition to the rising river waters, an ice gorge was reported moving down the Allegheny River from Kittanning, north of here. The gorge was still well above the city today but rivermen believe that unless it is broken up serious damage may result.

SLAYER FOUND GUILTY; TO DIE

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Found guilty of the murder of Milton Valisopolous, a jury today demanded death in the electric chair for William Lenhardt, 22-year-old Cleveland youth.

After debating the fate of Lenhardt throughout the night the jurymen brought in a verdict of guilty early this morning. Valisopolous was slain in a holdup of his restaurant on June 19, 1929.

Lenhardt's defense alibi that he was in Cleveland on the day of the fatal shooting was broken down by prosecutors yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Catherine Gidric of Cleveland, a defense witness, confessed a perjury and was ordered held for sentence along with John Radio, of Cleveland, who gave the same version from the stand.

HEAD OF CHARITIES CALLED BY DEATH

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—Death today had claimed one of Columbus' foremost philanthropists, Rev. William Stuart Eagleson, at one time minister at the Presbyterian churches at Fredericktown, Apple Creek, and Mt. Gilead.

Dr. Eagleson, who was 90 years of age, served as head of the Associated Charities here for a number of years. He was born in Washington County, Pennsylvania, and was graduated from Washington and Jefferson College.

After his pastorate at Apple Creek, Fredericktown and Mt. Gilead, he and his family, which comprises four sons and a daughter, moved to this city, where he had remained since.

Funeral services will be held here Thursday morning and the body will be taken to Mt. Gilead for burial the same afternoon.

PROFESSOR DIES ON FRIDAY IF COOPER REFUSES REPRIEVE

Defense Counsel To Ask Stay; Wife Remains Loyal

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—Dr. James H. Snook today was closer to death in the electric chair at the Ohio State penitentiary here than he has been at any time since he murdered his 24-year-old co-ed sweetheart, Miss Theora Hix, and it appeared almost certain that the former highly-respected college professor would die in "society's instrument of death" Friday.

Attorneys for the doomed man, who killed his paramour on a lonely ridge range on the outskirts of this city June 13, today said that Governor Myers Y. Cooper was really Dr. Snook's only hope, as the result of the action of the U. S. Supreme Court, yesterday afternoon, which refused to grant the killer a stay of execution or a writ of habeas corpus.

It is a forlorn hope, at best, Governor Cooper intimated that he would not interfere with the scheduled electrocution when he refused to grant the ex-professor of veterinary medicine a reprieve last week.

Although the chief executive refused to comment on the action of the United States Supreme Court, reports from reliable sources, said there was hardly one chance in a thousand that the chief executive would interfere.

E. O. Ricketts, chief of Dr. Snook's defense counsel, said that he would appeal to the governor today for a stay of execution until the state clemency board has a chance to review the case. Ricketts said he would base his plea on the grounds that Dr. Snook is guilty of nothing more than manslaughter, whereas a common pleas court jury found him guilty of first-degree murder without a recommendation for mercy after deliberating only twenty-eight minutes. The attorney will also point out, he said, that one of the three judges of the Franklin County appellate court differed with the majority on some points of the case and that the vote of the seven Ohio supreme court judges was not listed when the court applied the conviction.

Attorneys, too, may ask for a writ of habeas corpus from the federal court on the grounds that Dr. Snook is illegally confined. Ricketts declared. He would base the plea on the allegation that "Dr. Snook was deprived of his liberty because of mob violence." However, close followers of the case said that it would hardly be possible to complete this step in the two days that remain.

It is possible that Governor Cooper, may order the board of clemency to make a hurried review of the case, but to have any recommendations it wishes to make, ready before Friday.

Melvin T. Hix, father of the slain co-ed, was in the office of County Prosecutor John J. Chester, when Chester, who was in Washington, telephoned the news of the high court's decision to his office. Myron B. Gessman, assistant prosecutor, said that Dr. Hix appeared nervous while awaiting the decision, but that he looked relieved when he was told that the supreme court had decreed that the slayer of his daughter must die.

Mrs. Mabel Snook, wife of the man who slew the co-ed for whom he had maintained a "love nest," was visiting her husband in "death row" at the Ohio State Penitentiary when the decision became known.

She did not hear of it until she left the "aisle of the doomed," and then she overheard two prisoners discuss it. She broke down and wept. Mrs. Snook refused to talk to newspapermen. She has remained loyal to her husband, who betrayed her and her child by his philandering with Theora Hix.

STEEL, SPECIALTY STOCKS SHOW GAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Strength and activity of the steel and high-priced specialty stocks featured the opening of the stock market today.

Eastman Kodak was up 1 1/4 at 212 1/2; Westinghouse up 1 1/4 at 171; DuPont up 1/2 at 124; Western Union up 1/4 at 210 1/2.

Vanadium led the steels, with a gain of 2 1/2 at 68. U. S. Steel sold up 1/2 at 179 1/2; Bethlehem down 1/4 at 97 1/2.

FINDS MOTHER DEAD

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Feb. 26.—A curious boy followed a crowd carrying the body of a woman on a crude stretcher to a morgue only to find that the mangled body was that of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Lowe, 49, a widow. The boy was Wayne, 16, the widow's only son. Mrs. Lowe was killed when she stepped in front of a train.

EDUCATOR TO SPEAK BEFORE LUTHERAN BROTHERHOOD HERE

Dr. H. J. Arnold, director of the Wittenberg Special Schools, Springfield, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Lutheran Brotherhood here Friday in the Sunday School rooms of the First Lutheran Church, 303 W. Main St., at 7:30 p. m.

"The Church, the School and the Community," will be the subject of his address. Dr. Arnold was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1917 with the bachelor of arts degree. He received his master's degree from the University of Iowa in 1923 and his doctor of philosophy credit from Ohio State University in 1929.

In addition to his academic achievements, Dr. Arnold is vitally interested in the church and in schooling. He was one of the organizers of the Parent-Teacher Association in Springfield several years ago. He is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, national professional education fraternity of which the Rev. Adria N. G. Lebold, pastor of the local Lutheran Church, is also a member. Dr. Arnold is now faculty advisor of the fraternity.

The visiting educator came to Wittenberg College in 1925 after serving western institutions in capacity of dean and principal. He is a speaker and writer on educational psychology. He has been eminently successful in conducting the special schools at Wittenberg, which include the Saturday school at each week-end, the evening classes in many cities and towns of this section of the state, the junior college at Dayton, and the annual summer session of two terms with an annual enrollment of near 1,800.

In addition to his duties as director of special schools, he is assistant professor in psychology at Wittenberg.

SPRING BUSINESS OPENING PLAN OF MERCHANTS

Plans for an elaborate spring merchandising opening among Xenia retail stores were disclosed Wednesday by E. Earl Mann, president of the Xenia Retail Merchants' Association.

A great amount of interest in the plan was evidenced at a monthly dinner-meeting of the association at the Elks' Club Monday night.

It is suggested that the spring opening last three days through Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 20, 21 and 22.

All retail merchants are being asked to co-operate by veiling their show windows Wednesday night, March 19, on the eve of the opening.

The windows will be all unveiled Thursday night, March 20 at 7:30 o'clock and the stores will hold "open house" to the public, inviting an inspection of new spring stock. The display windows will also contain attractive exhibits of Spring lines and styles. The opening will continue through the following two days.

It is expected that if the merchants will all participate in the project the veiling of the windows will cause considerable comment and start the ball rolling for the spring season.

EAST HIGH NOTES

The public is cordially invited to attend the basketball game tonight between the High-Y team of Lockland, O., and the East High Cubs in East High Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

On Monday night, March 3rd East High will meet for the third time this season, the Dayton Hi-Y quintet. The first game played on the home court was won by the Cubs by a score of 23-29. East lost the return game on Dayton's court with a score of 21-37. This third game on Monday night will decide the championship between these two teams. Come out and help the home team to win.

The management is arranging to have all balcony seats reserved for the 35 cent tickets. The crowd is going to be so large that it would be wise for all patrons expecting to attend this championship game to come early or make early reservations for seats. Remember our slogan, "Beat Dayton".

"What's the News"

WHEN COLUMBUS and his caravels returned from the New World, the first question shouted from the shore was, "What's the news?"

That's always the question of paramount importance. Years ago folks asked it of the post rider, the soldier returned from the wars, the man who had been down to the settlements, or the neighbor back from the general store.

Today, you find the answer in your newspaper. Through the newspapers the news of the world and of the community quickly becomes public knowledge. And remember this—it takes two kinds of news to make a modern paper complete.

The first tells of happenings near and far—of fires, sports, elections, accidents, marriages, deaths, great men, great events.

The second tells of things you eat, wear and use — things you buy, things being sold to your friends and neighbors. This news is advertising.

It's just as important to keep up to date on the advertising in this paper as it is to read about what's doing in the world of events.

Advertising is an essential news service.
It is distinctly to your advantage to be guided by it.

Home Heads Honored At Party And Dance

One of the loveliest and most interesting social affairs of the year was the all-school party and dance given in honor of Captain and Mrs. H. L. Hays, newly appointed superintendent and chieftain of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, Tuesday evening from 7 to 12:30 o'clock in the Home High School auditorium. The party was sponsored by employees of the Home.

A party for children opened the program in the form of an entertainment by employees and teachers with a motion picture following. The program opened with a band concert by members of the "Kitchen Cabinet Band." Teachers and cottage supervisors dressed in military uniforms played the following selections: "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine," "The End of a Perfect Day," a special offering, "Where, Oh Where, Has

My Little Dog Gone," "Pack Up Your Troubles," and "Your Land and My Land." Miss Katherine McLaughlin played a harp solo, her harp being silent while a musical powder box furnished the music.

Those taking part in the band were: Misses Hess, High, Tedrick, Bell, Stanberry, Hotchkiss, Resh, Weaver, Esmond, Brown, Williams, Standfield, Jettmore, McKenzie and Mrs. Teeters, Mrs. Perry Swindler, Mrs. O. K. Probasco and Mrs. Howell. Miss Carey Kogole, cottage supervisor, acted as drum-major.

Lieut. Perry Swindler and a squad of officers presented an inspection of guns and the manual of arms with music. Messrs. Russell Kurtz, John Collins, Frank Braun, Warren Yowell and Alton Snyder were the officers.

A colonial duet presenting Miss Katherine Shriver as the colonial girl and Miss Eleanor Hill as the boy in "I Passed by Your Window," followed. Both girls are members of the fourth grade.

Lieut. Swindler and Mr. James Collins closed the amateur program with selections on the guitar and harmonica.

The program for the children closed with a Krazy Kat Comedy and the movie "Cinderella." The children returned to their cottages after the serving of a light refreshment course.

At 10 o'clock students of the senior class, discharge class, employees, teachers, members of the dancing classes and guests remained for a dance. Paul Smithley and his orchestra from Springfield furnished music. The auditorium was transferred into a dance hall by using an effective lighting system.

Guests present from Xenia were: The Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Tilford, Mr. and Mrs. I. Friedman and Mr. Waldorf Sachs.

KENIA MINISTER AUTHOR OF POEM FOR MAGAZINE

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, is author of the following verses that appear in the current issue of "The Presbyterian Advance," a church magazine published at Nashville, Tenn:

A RADIO VOICE

By WILLIAM H. TILFORD

Out of the night a voice came.
Out of the space a message rose.
Out of the tubes a sound became.
Out of the horn a song composed.

Two burdened souls.
Two hearts bowed down.
Two lives with heavy burdens prest.
Two with future so unknown.

The dials they spun.
The dials they moved.
The dials did turn.
The dials' turn solved.

The Music, unfamiliar.
The Voice, unknown.
The Spirit, familiar.
The Words, well known.

"Take your burden to the Cross and leave it there, leave it there."
Two burdens, to the cross were carried.
Two burdens, at the cross there tarried.

Into two hearts the Spirit went.
Into two lives a hope was sent.
Into four eyes the light did start.
Into two breasts the beat of new hearts.

Send Thou more messages sweet.
Speak to Thy children words so needed.
Till in Thy heaven they meet.
This voice out of the air they heeded.

Out of the night a voice came.
Out of the space a message rose.
Out of the tubes a sound became.
Out of the horn a song composed.

Out of Christ's heaven a message was told.
Out into God's world two lives were bold;
Bold to live,
Bold to work,
Bold to speak,
Bold to serve,
Bold to Love.

Einstein Advises Youth in Choosing Career

Descending momentarily from the rarefied precincts of relativity, Albert Einstein, noted scientist, advised the youth of today. The noted scientist delivered himself of some kindly and practical counsel to a young student who had sought his advice. He told of his own experience in choosing a calling. It is the era of the self-made man, where thousands of young men must depend on their own resources, rather than preferment, for success in their careers.

Attorney William J. Granfield and his three motherless children from whom, as the new Congressman from the Second District of Massachusetts, he may be temporarily separated. Since the death of their mother last August, the children, Eleanor, Billy (left) and Jack (right), have received the almost constant personal care of their father, despite his manifold activities. Granfield, who is a former college athlete and big league baseball player, will be the first Democratic Congressman from his district in 40 years.

Editor Gazette:

A GRAVE MENACE

A serious criticism of our penal institutions is that because of lack of accommodations it is not possible to classify criminals, first offenders must be placed with hardened criminals. Greene County has parallel conditions in its arrangement for caring for its offenders. To illustrate the point, several weeks ago a girl of seventeen ran away from the County Children's Home. She was apprehended, brought back to Xenia and placed in the detention room of the jail. During the week she was held there pending the hearing of her case, four immoral women were placed in the detention room, one of them with a charge of second degree murder against her. This young girl crying? Yes. But it should be the business of the public to safeguard a wayward girl or boy instead of placing them in demoralizing environment, where they must come in such close contact with contamination.

The officials can not be criticized for this situation as there is absolutely no alternative. These offenders must be held until they have a hearing and this detention room is the only place provided. If the room is occupied by women and a boy is brought before the court and it is necessary to detain him there is no place to care for him except in the jail proper. "Vice is a monster of so frightful a mien, which to be hated needs but to be seen, but seen too oft, familiar with her face, we first endure, then pity then embrace." Citizen.

THE FAREWELL SONG

Xenian Unearths Ancient Melody Of Civil War Days, Probably Long Forgotten

War time always inspires patriotic group of songs of patriotic text and martial air, designed to inspire the soldier boy. Civil War veterans marched away to the tune of "John Brown's Body," and put a stirring air into our national music history. "Good-bye, Dolly Grey" inspired those blue-clad soldiers of the Spanish-American conflict.

And then "Over There," "I Hate to Get Up" and other wartime airs did a like service for World War soldiers. Most of them are hastily written, keyed to the patriotic pitch of war-time and designed for a fever-blinded market. But it remained for Mrs. J. A. Piper, 835 N. King St., to rediscover the prize war-time song of them all while examining the contents of a trunk recently. The song was written by Hugh O'Donnell as a farewell song for the Ohio Volunteers during the Civil War times and the words were set to the music of "Raging of the Waters or Indian's Farewell."

Although the impression remains that there were several states that seceded from the union and took part in the rebellion, the song singles out Carolina as the target of its choicest venom and rambles along in vagary meter and confusing phraseology. The fact that it has not survived in Civil War music proves it was one of the war's worst songs. It is reproduced herewith:

FAREWELL SONG OF THE OHIO VOLUNTEERS
By Hugh O'Donnell
(Tune—"Raging of the Waters, or Indian's Farewell.")

Farewell to Ohio, farewell for awhile;
Farewell to our sweethearts, with their wistful smile;
Farewell, dear wives and mothers, we leave you here behind;
We're going to plant the Stars and Stripes over South Carolina.

We are the sons of Washington, who fought in days of yore,
Who led our sires through smoke and fire, all in their bloody gore;
We'll fight like noble Volunteers, the Union like to save,
In memory of our fathers that lie mouldering in their grave.

We have a noble Captain—he is a hero of renown—
We'll march with him to Charleston and pull their colors down!
We'll hoist our noble flag, my boys, on every sea and shore,
And our Stars and Stripes we will maintain till tyrants are no more!

We had a loving sister once—we called her Carolin;
Now she has disgraced herself and to us has proved unkind;
We whipped the British for her sake, and on the field of battle stood;
Now she has drawn her sabre and split our brothers' blood!

The insults of these murderers no longer we could bear;
The life of Col. Ellsworth you know they did not spare;
To civilize these murderers we now take up our gun;
And the Stars and Stripes again shall float o'er the bank of Charleston!

Now to conclude and finish, we bid you all goodbye;
To our wives and sweet hearts: we hope they will not cry—
When the war is over, we'll meet them with three cheers,
And they will all welcome home the Ohio Volunteers!

OHIO IS STRONGEST KIWANIS STATE SAYS DISTRICT OFFICER

"Ohio is the strongest Kiwanis state," said J. Guy O'Donnell, Covington, governor of the second division of the Ohio district of Kiwanis at a meeting of Dayton Kiwanians and officers of nine clubs in the district at the Miami Hotel, Dayton, Tuesday noon.

"Kiwanis is the biggest service club organization in the world," he said. "It numbers nearly 2000 clubs and over 125,000 members. In our district alone, the largest of the twenty-two in the country, are more than 8500 members."

"Vocational guidance work has been undertaken by 65 per cent of the clubs and all of them follow a program of aiding underprivileged children."

After the luncheon, a session attended by presidents, secretaries and trustees of the clubs was held and the unified programs of the division were discussed. Wilson W. Galloway, Cedarville, lieutenant governor, presided over the luncheon meeting.

Howard Smith, Dayton, gave an address during the luncheon meeting followed by Governor O'Donnell's address.

Several state officers including E. W. Harrington, Columbus, chairman of the good will and business committee and James E. Grube, Columbus, former Xenian, publicity chairman, were present for the meeting.

Sore Throats and Coughs

QUICKLY RELIEVED BY THIS SAFE PRESCRIPTION

Here's a doctor's prescription that is really throat insurance. Sore or irritated throats are relieved and soothed almost instantly with the very first swallow. About 90 per cent of all coughs are caused by an irritated throat; consequently for most coughs and there is nothing better than this famous prescription—it goes direct to the internal cause. It is put up under the name Thoxine and is guaranteed to stop coughs and relieve sore throats in fifteen minutes or your money will be refunded. Singers and speakers find Thoxine very valuable.

The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that while it relieves almost instantly, it contains nothing harmful, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Ask for Thoxine 35c., 60c., and $1.00 bottles. All druggists.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

But I would have you without carefulness. He that is unmarried careth for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord. But he that is married careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife.—1 Corinthians, vii, 32, 33.

THE FRENCH CABINET

The fall of the Labor government in Great Britain and the return of the Conservatives to power, coming when it did, could very easily have a far-reaching effect on the London conference and other foreign affairs. The fall of the Tardieu government in France will hardly be noticed outside of Paris. This is due to the fact that party government, as known in Great Britain, does not exist across the channel.

There are ten recognized political groups in the chamber of deputies, at least six of which have considerable voting strength. Consequently there is no such wide partisan cleavage as under the two-party system. The constant necessity of compromise in France keeps its foreign policy on a fairly level keel, whoever is premier. Governments fall and are reformed with the same cards, arranged a little differently. Among reports now coming out of Paris is one that Andre Tardieu may be asked to succeed himself as premier by reshuffling his cabinet and possibly taking in M. Poincare as minister of finance.

The cabinet that has just been defeated by a narrow majority because it opposed augmenting the pensions of widows of officers and men killed in the World war, was formed on November 2 last, after the fall of Aristide Briand. At the time it was described as a government of the Centre, with Right support. The groups underwriting it controlled about 300 out of the 612 votes in the chamber; and it is a tribute to its leader's parliamentary genius that he was able to hold it together, with minority backing, as long as he did.

Worn out by commuting back and forward between the chamber in Paris and the conference in London, Tardieu was down with la grippe when the opposition's final successful assault was launched. Whether he could have saved the day if he had been on the ground is a question of little importance, after the fact of his government's resignation; but it is interesting to note that even in France politicians show to those who wear themselves out in the public service, about the same consideration a pack of wolves shows to one of its number that falls by the wayside.

UTILIZING BASEMENT SPACE

Have you ever realized that your basement offers a splendid opportunity to increase the amount of space in your home available for living? Perhaps you have considered it merely a place for your furnace, the water heater, the oil bin and possibly a rather unsatisfactory laundry.

With a little careful planning, basement space may be made of real value and the attractiveness of the interior of your home considerably increased. Many families have converted portions of their basements into extra sitting rooms, billiard rooms or play-rooms for the children, and have banished forever the old cobwebby, damp catch-all cellars that were of no great value to them.

For example, a properly remodeled basement makes an ideal playroom for the children. Here they can romp to their hearts' content without having the clatter of their feet disturb their elders. They can lay out their miniature railroad systems without getting them under the feet of their parents; rainy days will not hamper their activities and too much attention need not be paid to their playmates' muddy feet. When the children are older the basement makes an ideal place for a home gymnasium where trapezes, parallel bars, punching bags and similar equipment can be installed.

Many families have found the basement an ideal place for a recreation room in which can be placed a billiard table that would take up too much space in any other portion of the house. These recreation rooms are frequently used for card parties and other amusements. On the other hand, this space may be converted into a work-shop, photographic dark room or chemistry laboratory.

Only a small outlay of cash is necessary to convert your basement space into useful rooms. Local lumber dealers and contractors are always glad to confer with home owners on such remodeling jobs.

The WAY of the WORLD

HARMONIOUS

The University of California has a new dormitory which provides quarters for more than 450 students, most of whom will be of foreign birth. Many nations will be represented along with a limited number of Americans. The new building is happily called International House. Thus some universities are properly sowing the seeds of international harmony and understanding. Fruit will be borne in the years to come.

TOGETHER

Quakers will worship with Baptists and many others in the new $4,000,000 church which Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's congregation is building on Riverside Drive, New York. Special provision is to be made for separate rooms. When plans for the new church, of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is a member, were outlined to Dr. Fosdick he said: "It will be architecturally glorious; one of the great edifices of the nation. But if it is to be a real church it must be domesticated, flooded with friendliness, made a natural home for all sorts and groups, gathered around common purposes of study and service."

DOWN TOWN CHURCHES

Congregations worry about their down-town churches. They are looking out into the residence districts and to the outskirts of the city for new locations. But they might better look about them and move carefully. In a number of cities downtown churches are being located in high office buildings or in the same building with hotels and apartment houses. It is proving a profitable business venture and the churches are flourishing. The day may come when the down-town church will finance an outlying church much as a mission is financed now. The down-town church is not out. In fact it has not yet come into its own. It has a future greater than many people have ever realized.

ENEMIES AND FRIENDS

A man can usually take care of his enemies. He deals with them simply and easily. He can let them alone or use harsher measures. Not so with your friends. They present a more difficult problem. They are harder to deal with. Many good friends are thoughtless. They waste your time. They make unreasonable demands. Time-wasters among your acquaintances cut in on your peace of mind and the joy of living.

POPULARITY

Don't you wish you could write a book as popular as the Bible? Last year there were 35,000,000 copies sold. The next best seller among books was under a million and a half.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS
WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

"If between election and inauguration day," asks a reader, "the president-elect should die, (1) would the vice president-elect succeed, in due course, to the presidency, and (2) if so, who would become vice president?"

1. Although it has never happened—yes, unquestionably. 2. There would be no vice president. The senate would choose its own presiding officer. The presidential succession already is provided for in such a contingency—the cabinet members, in order of seniority, down to and including the secretary of the interior.

Poetry

What country has produced most poets?

England, by all odds.

Official Salaries

What are the salaries of (1) the president, (2) vice president, (3) cabinet members, (4) members of congress and (5) supreme court justices?

1. $75,000, $25,000 entertainment allowance and house rent. 2. $15,000. 3. $15,000 each. 4. $10,000 each; senators and representatives alike. 5. Chief justice, $20,500; associate justices, $20,000 each.

A Topekan

What is Vice President Curtis' home residence?

Topeka, Kansas.

Memorable Events

Please name the memorable events from 1763 to 1930.

There is space for very few and importance is largely a matter of opinion. However—1776, Declaration of Independence; 1781, Cornwallis' surrender; 1789, Washington's inauguration; 1812, second war with England; 1815, Waterloo; 1846-8, Mexican war; 1853-5, Crimean war; 1861-5, Civil war and Lincoln's assassination; 1870-1, Franco-Prussian war and Chicago fire; 1881, Garfield's assassination; 1898, Spanish-American war; 1901, McKinley's assassination; 1906, San Francisco earthquake; 1914-18, World war.

Ultima Thule

What is the meaning of "Ultima Thule"?

"Ultima" (Latin) means "farthest." Thule was the most northern land known to the ancients—perhaps Norway or Iceland. In today's current usage the term implies "farthest away," remote, mysterious, or unknown region. It is also used figuratively, implying strange ways of thought.

Naval Service

Can a member of the naval reserve volunteer in the coast guard without his commanding officer's permission?

He has to have his naval reserve discharge from his commanding officer.

'S SO

Old Doc Charlie Potter, the humanist, climbs to the house-top, lies down on his stomach, crawls to the edge of the parapet, sticks his head over, and cupping both hands to his rosy lips hurls this message to The Man-in-the-Ford:

"Many people live and die without ever having met themselves."

The Doc says that as if it were really too bad, whereas, it's a darned good thing. It's what a man doesn't know about himself that keeps him going. A little retrospection is good for the soul, in that it usually begets engaging modesty. But where introspection is carried to the extreme, where it may be said of a man that he really and truly knows himself,

ONE PRESIDENT TO ANOTHER

Stewart Indicates Why Progressives Are Suspicious of Senator Johnson

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Of the 11 Republican senators who voted to keep Charles Evans Hughes out of the chief justiceship of the United States Supreme court, Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California was one.

It was in thoroughly progressive company that Senator Johnson voted thus.

In deed, it would not be exaggerating to call it a radical group (on that vote, at least), for the G. O. P. moderate liberals deserted to the conservative faction when it came to a question of fighting the White House on so important an appointment.

However, Senator Johnson showed no qualms whatever, but lined up boldly with the left wing. Not that anyone was surprised. The California senator only did what he usually does. He evidently reasons consistently along progressive lines. His nerve is good, too. When he chooses to be, he is as defiant of the G. O. P. organization as Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska himself. True, he did not actually bolt the G. O. P. ticket in 1928, as Uncle George did, but he is not afraid to bolt any time he sees fit. He bolted in 1912, it will be recalled—sufficiently to run for vice president on the progressive ticket with Colonel Roosevelt.

The peculiar thing is that, despite the many proofs he has given of the genuineness of his progressivism (in the main), together with ample demonstrations of his courage, and his undoubted ability, Senator Johnson does not stand very well with the progressives in the upper house of congress.

They unmistakably regard him as a comrade not altogether to be relied on in an emergency.

In any roster of the progressives the Californian's name invariably is set down only tentatively; which seems odd, considering that he comes up to the scratch in the hour of battle about as regularly as the best of them, and even more formidably than some, because of his superior qualities as a scrapper.

The fact is that few of the younger generation of progressives know just what there is in Senator Johnson's political career to make them suspicious of him, but simply have vaguely heard that he once did something which the old-timers never have forgiven.

The story dates back to a time personally recalled by perhaps none of the present period's insurgents other than Senator Norris, though young Senator LaFollette doubtless had it from his father.

The progressives of that day felt that Senator Johnson had double-crossed them in the tariff fight of 1922, and while a single one of their number remains in the land of the living it appears unlikely that he will forget it.

Tariff fights always breed a lot of trading. One state wants one sort of protection which some other state is not interested in, but the second state requires a different kind that can do no good to the state of the first part.

What more natural than for state No. 1's Washington representatives morbidly results and the next step is the nerve specialist and then the rest cure.

Beware of pigeon-toed thinking.

to help state No. 2's, if No. 2's will reciprocate the favor?

Today's Recipes

Scrappe—One cup fresh pork, two quarts water, two cups corn meal, salt. Put meat through food chopper. Mix all ingredients and cook as you would for mush. Pour into pan or mold and when cold slice and fry to a golden brown.

Rice and Pineapple Pudding—One cup cooked rice, one cup shredded pineapple, drained, one cup whipping cream, sugar to taste. Sweeten cream and whip. Mix thoroughly with rice and pineapple.

Suggestions

Possibly this housewife's experience may help some other woman whose kitchen space is limited. She says:

"After making a pair of hall curtains of blue oilcloth I had several large pieces of each left. This I cut to make pockets for pot covers, cake and pit tins, also cookie and muffin pans, as my cupboard space was quite small. Cut blue oilcloth for background 14 by 36 inches long, and then cut strips of various sizes to fit covers. Lower pocket of black, 6 by 14 inches. Next pocket of blue, 8 by 14 inches. Third one of black, 9 by 14 inches. Fourth of blue, 11 by 14 inches. Top pocket of black 13 by 14 inches. This one was large enough for muffin and cookie tins.

First I bound pockets at top and bottom with orange colored binding then stitched these to large blue piece, starting largest black pocket about two inches from top and overlapping other pockets to space almost even all the way down. Then I bound entire holder with same binding all around. This I hang on inside of kitchen clothes closet door, which keeps them all out of dust and is easy to find, as the smallest covers are in bottom pocket and graduate up. This gives me ample cupboard space for pans, etc.

lawmaker can hardly avoid helping out his home industries in this fashion. Most of the progressives themselves do a little of it. But it must not be done extensively, or they become high protectionists.

Now California is peculiarly situated on the tariff question.

Due to the wide variations in its climate and altitudes, it has a tremendous variety of industries which want protection. Many of them are industries of no importance in other states—or not many others.

This state of affairs forced Senator Johnson to do a vast deal of trading.

The upshot was that he presently found himself deeply involved on the side of the ultra-protectionist element, which the middle western and northwestern progressives were opposing tooth and toenail—and counting on Senator Johnson, as a progressive, to help them in opposing.

Johnson was unable to do it. It will take him a long time to live it down, with the progressives.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

WHY THE TRAIN STOOD STILL

"WHAT'S true?" demanded Peter and Methuselah turned toward the excited boy.

"That we Cicadas sing a farewell to life," he answered. "As a matter of fact, we sing when and where ever we can. Perhaps that is why we live so long and are happy so much of the time. We make the best of every minute in the day. By the way, I heard Biffer telling you that the little Wasps and Hornets ate us up alive. They do, but we do not mind so very much."

"Don't mind!" Peter's mouth dropped open. "Why, I shouldn't think you could be cheerful under such conditions."

"Ah, but we are! Our feelings are not sensitive and so we do not suffer much, you see. To change the subject, you've no idea how clever my wife is. You ought to see her saw a twig in two."

"Saw a twig. With what?" asked Peter. Methuselah chuckled.

"With her saws, of course. Wherever Wifie goes, there the saws go, too. She never leaves them behind her, for she never knows when she will need them."

"How interesting," murmured Peter. Methuselah pounced upon the boy's words.

"If you think two of us are interesting, you should come upon a crowd of us together. There'd be a sight you'd never forget. I can tell you. When all our family get together we can drive the world of insects before us. Even the Humans get out of our way. I have heard my father tell a funny story how once when a crowd of Cicadas were out for a good time, they hopped on the top and clug to the sides of a railroad train, and there were so many of them and they were so heavy the train had to stop. It couldn't budge, no sir!"

Diet and Health

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers. —Jewish Proverb.

Mrs. D.: Yes, there is no doubt that children are born with inferior constitutions because of disease or inferior constitutions in their parents. However, under the right care they can overcome this handicap.

Cod liver oil is a food, not a medicine, and is one that is high in vitamins A and D (A is the growth and disease-resisting vitamin, and D the anti-rachitic, bone-building and maintenance vitamin).

You must have your child checked up by a competent physician to see if there is any physical abnormality that is causing her lack of appetite and malnourishment. I also suggest you give her extra amounts of vitamin B—the appetite stimulating vitamin. It vitavose, besides what she gets from the foods high in that vitamin (tomatoes raw, canned or dried), spinach, beans, yeast and yeast extracts, whole grain breads and cereals.

Have her out in the air and sunshine for a large part of the day, and see that she has rest periods in the daytime. Her food should be cooked and served attractively, and no candy or other appetite-cloying foods between meals. She can have some orange juice or perhaps a glass of milk then.

The following is a good foundation for each child's daily diet:

Daily Foundation Diet for Children

Part 1—Protective Foods: One and one-half pints of milk, at least; one full cupful of vegetables (especially the green leaf vegetables) part of them raw; one full cupful of fruit, part fresh, if possible; one to two ounces of high protein food; fleg foods, eggs, cottage cheese.

Part 2—Energy Foods: Cereals, including whole-grain breads, rice, macaroni, potatoes and simple desserts; fats in the form of butter, cream, egg yolks and nuts.

We have a list of good books on the general care and feeding of children which you may have. See column rules.

Mrs. I. S.: There is no more danger of having a baby now than there was when you were young. This idea that it is unsafe to have children after 35 has been propagated entirely wrong. With the proper prenatal care, there is no more danger then that an any other time.

Stop worrying about it, and tell your family to stop worrying and especially to stop worrying you. (I can see where you did not give your children the proper sex instruction in youth, or they certainly would not have the unknown attitude they have now because you are expecting another baby.)

Have you had a diagnosis? I may be possible that at your age you are going through the "haze" of life.

We have an article on the danger during pregnancy and nursing and a list of books for mothers, which you may have by following column rules.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters can not diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. ## Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"I see by the papers" that a woman has been convicted in court for being "a common scold." A good many people—men especially—will cheer. The verdict carries a prison sentence.

Women are usually credited with being the world's worst naggers. They may be more guilty than men. The many petty details of housekeeping, the constant worrying care of little children and loss of sleep when members of the family are ill, all tend to wear down a woman's nerve resistance.

Women by no means monopolize the fault, however. There are many men scolds who make their families miserable whenever they are at home.

Sometimes an irritable disposition is caused by physical illness and vanishes when the person is well again. Sometimes it is the defense mechanism unconsciously set up to cover a feeling of inferiority—or a desire to gain importance and to attract attention.

For the person who realizes that others are made unhappy by unkind remarks and who wants earnestly to change, there is hope. Only by constant watchfulness of one's tongue and discipline can one overcome such a trait, striving to think always of the other person and not of oneself and one's ego will accomplish it.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: My husband and I are living with my mother and father. My husband has not a secure job and I have been in poor health lately, and we have a little baby eight months old. I adore my mother and simply could not get along without her. She is very good to me in many ways and thinks a lot of our baby, but she has a terribly sharp tongue and doesn't care how much what she says hurts anyone's feelings. I have a quick temper. I sometimes reply heatedly to her unkind remarks, then she becomes offended and won't speak to me for several days."

"When I think over our quarrel, regardless of what she has said, I feel I would like to tell her I am sorry for what I said, and did not mean it, but her manner discourages me and I cannot do it. Believe me, I am not a scold."

M. K.: Don't believe the strain of your sofa pillow could be removed. The only thing to do is to pay over it. And the success of the would depend on how badly you how far the colors had run. Better get a new cover.

BABY FACE: Your boy friend probably does care for you in his own way, but I wish, my dear, you could give up all your old friends. It would be so much easier to live as you wish. I suppose there is a chance of that, as you love him?

M. K.: Don't believe the strain of your sofa pillow could be removed. The only thing to do is to pay over it. And the success of the would depend on how badly you how far the colors had run. Better get a new cover.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Reports are current that the annual Greene County Class B basketball tournament, staged at Xenia Central High School every year since 1927, may be transferred somewhere else in the county next year where a greater seating capacity is provided.

The tourney, founded in 1915, was held under auspices of Antioch College for many years, but because of inadequate accommodations for fans, the event was shifted eventually to Xenia Central High.

Now it is generally felt that attendance at the tourney game has increased to a point where the local school gymnasium no longer is considered entirely satisfactory.

It is pointed out that only from 200 to 250 seats are available on the lower floor and that a clear view of the games from the balcony surrounding the court is not afforded unless fans stand up all the time. Even so, the local gym is taxed beyond capacity and standing room is always at a premium, so great is the attendance.

Two other places are suggested where the tourney might be held. At Ross Twp. High School a new $10,000 gymnasium provides a playing floor larger than that at Central High while the gym has a seating capacity of more than 1,000 people. The comparatively new Alford memorial gymnasium at Cedarville College is also adequately equipped to handle large tourney crowds.

One thing in favor of the Xenia Central gym, however, is that it is a neutral playing court and the contention cannot be made that any of the competing teams has an unfair advantage over the others.

The nine schools which will compete in the annual county Class B cage tourney Friday and Saturday are on record as being opposed to the "seeding" system. The question arose again when the school superintendents met to make the draw for the first round Monday and the matter, after lengthy debate, was finally put to a vote. Five schools voted against the "seeding" plan and four were in favor of it.

The advantage of this plan, those in favor of it point out, is that it prevents the stronger entries from meeting in an early round. Sometimes the luck of the draw makes it possible for a weaker team to reach the finals, and the final championship game is frequently so one-sided that all interest is knocked out of the game.

The admittedly stronger teams are always in favor of the "seeding" system, under which the better teams are placed in opposite brackets of the draw and cannot possibly meet until the later rounds. However, the so-called "weak sisters" can hardly be blamed for being against the plan as it reduces their chances of playing more than one game or at the outside, two, in the tourney.

After all, to keep peace among the teams and insure that harmony will prevail, it is perhaps better that the "seeding" plan was voted down.

As it turned out, Spring Valley, defending champion, and Ross Twp., which have been installed in advance as the tourney favorites, were placed in opposite sides of the draw anyway, and so these two schools, which may be presumed to have been in favor of the "seeding" plan, obtained what they wanted after all.

Every day since the popular pastime was started by a Columbus router some time ago, additional selections of all-star Cincinnati Red baseball teams continue to deluge newspaper offices in Cincinnati, and interest in the sport continues unabated. Louis Diebold, Minneapolis, who confessed to having seen nearly 2,000 games in Cincinnati in the last thirty-five years, sent in one of the latest all-time Red teams, which is considered one of the best choices yet received. His selections include: Hal Chase, first base; Bid McPhee, second base; Helme Groh, third base; Tom Corcoran, shortstop; Bob Bescher, left field; Eddie Roush, center field; Sam Crawford, right field; Larry McLean and Kid Baldwin, catchers; Tony Mullane, Billy Rhines, Frank Dwyer, Noodles Hahn, Adolph Luque and Red Lucas, pitchers; Charley Herzog, utility infielder, and Mike Mitchell, outfielder.

ANTIOCH-EARLHAM GAME ENDS SEASON

"Finis" will be written on Antioch College's basketball season, Wednesday night when the Division "A" quintet meets Earlham College, an Indiana team, in the final game on the schedule at Yellow Springs.

The Earlham contest was originally scheduled to be played on the Earlham floor but was transferred to Yellow Springs because the Indiana team's playing court is being re-laid in preparation for the tournament and is not yet available for games.

Antioch went to Hanover, Ind., to play a game Tuesday night but the team had not returned to Yellow Springs from the overnight excursion early Wednesday afternoon and the outcome of the contest remained a mystery to students of the college.

Buccaneers To End Season At Washington

CENTRAL HIGH TEAM CONCLUDES SEASON ON FOREIGN FLOOR

Two Regulars Will End
Careers In Blue
Lion Tilt

Xenia Central High School will ring down the curtain on its 1929-30 basketball campaign Friday night in a tilt with Washington C. H. on the Armory floor in that city.

Despite the fact the Blue Lions finished in last place in the South Central Ohio League, Xenia, crowned champions of the Miami Valley League for the third straight year, is expected to put in a busy evening.

Friday night's engagement will also be the final game on Washington's schedule and both quintets will strive to wind up their respective seasons with a victory.

Last season Xenia and Washington renewed basketball relations after a lapse of six years, the Bucs winning rather easily, 32 to 20.

Prior to last season's game the two schools had met on the hardwood three times since the 1919-20 season. In that season Washington copped the verdict, 14 to 13, but in 1921-22 Xenia was victorious, 24 to 16. During the season of 1922-23, Washington won, 21 to 18.

As a result the record is even, with two victories apiece, and the game Friday eve will break the tie. Two regular members of the Buccaneer team and two others on the first team squad will bring their scholastic careers to an end Friday except for the regional state tournament.

John Hurley, center, individual high scorer of the Miami Valley League this season, and Joe Smittle, outstanding guard and football star, are seniors and will play their last regularly scheduled game. Bob Hardy, who has seen little action this year, and John Schleppi, a sub for two years, who has been prevented by injuries from participating in more than a few games, are also seniors.

The other members of the squad have one or two more years of competition left. Birch Bell and Dalton, regular forwards, are junior and freshman, respectively, while Price, the other guard, is a junior. Other members of the squad include Dice, junior forward; Thompson, sophomore guard; Ralls, freshman forward, and Shaffer, junior forward.

In the closing game Friday, the Bucs must watch Wallace Noon, star forward, closely. Noon, although his team finished in last place, was ranked second among the individual scorers of the league or which Washington is a member. When the Blue Lions defeated Circleville, 42 to 22, last week, Noon collected twenty points. Bireley, his running mate, is also a high scorer while Severs, center, can be counted upon for points.

WILMINGTON BEATS CEDARVILLE FIVE

The most successful basketball season Wilmington College has experienced in recent years was brought to a triumphant close Tuesday night when the Quakers annexed their twentieth victory in twenty-one starts by downing Cedarville College basketballers, 39 to 9 at Alford gymnasium.

Wilmington rolled up nineteen points in the first half while Cedarville presented such a weak offense that a foul shot was the lone point obtained by the Borstmen in the first two periods.

The only defeat for Wilmington this season came at the hands of the University of Dayton Flyers, who noosed out the Quakers by one point after an overtime period.

In another one-sided preliminary game the Wilmington reserves walloped the Cedarville reserves, 45 to 14.

Bowling

Collecting a three-game total of 2,860, the league-leading Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team won two out of three games from the Benrus Watch quintet in a Recreation League match Tuesday night. The league champs dropped the middle game, however, by nine pins. Peterson, anchor man for the winners, turned in a series of 628 while Brickell, lead-off man for the same team, had a 620 total. Malavazos rolled a series of 556 for the Benrus team. Box scores:

UNITED STATES GOLF ASSOCIATION CHOOSES WALKER CUP TEAM

Eight of the ten players who were seeded in the 1929 amateur championship at Pebble Beach, Cal., have been selected by the United States Golf Association to compose the Walker Cup team it will send to Sandwich, England, next May to oppose the British in the bi-annual international matches. Those selected are shown above.

STARS ON FINDLAY COLLEGE QUINTET

Shown above are two prominent regulars of the Findlay College basketball quintet, which will appear at Alford gymnasium Friday night for a return game with Cedarville College basketballers. Buttermore holds down a forward post and Taylor is a guard. Earlier this season the Borstmen walloped the Orangemen, 62 to 48, and the Hancock County team, vastly improved since that time, hopes to even the old score.

SCRIBE PICKS ROSS BOYS, BELLBROOK GIRLS TO CAPTURE TOURNEY HONORS

By DALLAS MARSHALL

THIS business of picking winners in an athletic contest is usually considered worthless but here goes for the county tournament. After seeing practically all of the county teams in action and looking up the records of the season just about to close we will attempt to give you our honest opinion.

As for the boys, Spring Valley, last year's champs, Ross and Cedarville stand out. But one never knows, funny things happen in these tournaments.

In the upper bracket Bowersville should win from Yellow Springs and Spring Valley from Caesar Creek. This would place Spring Valley and Bowersville in the semi-finals and don't be surprised if the latter should give last year's champs a run for their money. Bowersville always has a good tournament team and has a habit of pulling the least expected. Nevertheless the Valley boys will probably find themselves in the finals Saturday night.

In the lower bracket Cedarville no doubt will push over Beaver, Ross will down Jamestown and then take Bellbrook, which drew a bye, into camp in its second game of the first round. If these winners come through as predicted the hottest contest of the tourney will be the Ross-Cedarville affair in the semi-finals Saturday afternoon. Their love for each other is conspicuous by its absence and when they play it's for blood and blood alone. Ross has a wonderful team composed of veterans but in the pinches it seems to weaken, which of course proves fatal. Cedarville presents the mystery team. It has been the most erratic team in the county this year. When it is in top form it looks like a world beater; other times it looks like a mediocre team and when it is bad it is even worse than that. These teams have met twice this year with honors divided and at present we pick Ross to win the "rub," then carry off the title by winning from Spring Valley in the finals. We also believe that in case the "Cardinals" knock off Ross they will win the championship.

In the girls' division everyone but the Yellow Springs backers looks for Bellbrook to come through again and we have a tendency to fall in line with Yellow Springs supporters.

In the upper bracket we pick Yellow Springs to defeat Bowersville and Beaver to win its game from the Valley sextet. In the semi-finals the Yellow Springs lassies will gain their second victory at the expense of Beaver Creek, and will be all set for the title clash in the evening.

In the other division Ross should win from Caesar Creek, Bellbrook from Jamestown and then defeat Cedarville, which drew a bye. Bellbrook should have little trouble putting Ross out of the race in the semi-finals. This would bring the two strongest teams together in the finals and as previously stated we differ from most critics and look for a new champion in Yellow Springs.

FINDLAY MEETS CEDARVILLE IN RETURN ENGAGEMENT ON FRIDAY

Findlay College's basketball team, which concludes its Northwestern Ohio Conference schedule Thursday night with Bluffton College on the Findlay floor, will seek revenge for a defeat administered by Cedarville College earlier in the season in a return game with the "Yellow-Jackets" Friday night at Alford gymnasium.

Earlier in the season when Smith and Allen were members of the team, Cedarville registered a 62 to 48 victory over the Findlay quintet in a high-scoring game. However, since these two star regulars dropped out of school Cedarville has been easy prey for other teams in recent games.

Findlay will also seek to duplicate an early season victory over Urbana Junior College in a return game on the Urbana floor Saturday night this week. In the first game the Hancock County basketballers rolled up a 74 to 24 victory.

The Orangemen in recent games have been displaying an improved brand of ball, as indicated by the fact they lost to Ashland, one of Ohio's strongest college teams, by only a two-point margin.

Findlay's probable starting lineup for the Cedarville court argument will include Buttermore and Moore at forwards, Robinson at center and Vermillion and Taylor at guards. John Moore, a freshman, has been averaging around fifteen points a game all season and he is the lad the Borstmen will have to watch closely.

NOVELTY PROGRAM AT KIWANIS MEET

A novelty program consisting of two minute talks by each member was enjoyed by members of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday evening when the regular weekly dinner meeting was held at Elks' Hall. Each member was given a slip of paper upon which was written the topic on which he was to speak.

At the close of the program rehearsal of the Ki-Ro Gridiron minstrels, which will be given during the month of March for the benefit of Shawnee Park, was held.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAT
By C. L. WEBB © 1929

CHAPTER XLV
"And so you are one of the Twenty Million Dollar Blair Twins, are you?" commented Sergeant Mike Kelly, his keen old eyes resting admiringly on Pat's pliantly pretty face. "I had the pleasure meeting your father, Big Jim Blair, once in Cleveland! He was the plaintiff in the Moriarty Oil investigation involving several Wall Street brokers and some thirty million dollars! Big Jim won his case—as he usually did! I was one of his witnesses, too!"
When Pat and her friends left police headquarters it was with the satisfying assurance that not only would Jean Bouchard's mysterious disappearance receive immediate attention, but three special officers from the Brooklyn station would be detailed at once on eight hour shifts each at the Lynn residence to act as guards day and night over Jimmy Blair. The first officer would arrive on the job at six o'clock that evening, they were assured by Sergeant Kelly.
"I knew, of course, that Dad used to be called 'Big Jim,'" said Pat in answer to a remark from Rex about the sergeant happening to know her father, as the limousine sped back to the house near Gramercy Park. "And I think we were lucky," she added, "that it chanced to be Sergeant Kelly on duty this afternoon. We might not have fared so well if he had not known Dad!"
"It would have been about the same, Miss Blair, with any other on duty," said Marks, the lawyer, with a knowing grin. "A young lady with a fourteen million dollar bank account is pretty likely to get quick action and close attention, even at police headquarters!"
Dallard and the doctor, with Marks, were left at the Gramercy Park house with the understanding that the girls should call the next day at noon, and take luncheon again with them. It was decided at the same time that Margery and Pat would stop at Madame Leclerc's hotel and bring her with them. She lived, she told them, at a small place in Twenty-eighth Street, only a few blocks from Gramercy Park, and to this address she was driven, after parting with the men. Here she bade the two girls good evening and Bill Perkins headed the car for home. Both Pat and Margery were anxious to get back to Jimmy. There was no telling what Maxwell might have been up to during the hours of their absence.
They found Jimmy sitting in the same big easy chair in which he was announced when they left the house that morning at ten thirty. He had vacated the chair twice since then, Aunt Lottie and Lucy told them. The first time had been when Lucy had ushered him into the dining room for luncheon, and once again when he got up of his own accord and went into the bathroom. They had heard him, they said, washing his hands, and when he came out and reentered himself in the big chair they noticed he had dampened and brushed his hair. From that time on, more than two hours, Lucy and Aunt Lottie declared, both talking at once, he had remained quietly seated in the chair, playing with his fingers, seeming to find in them, something of inexhaustible interest.
Pat looked at him sitting there in the deep chair, twiddling his thumbs. A big lump rose in her throat as she thought of the Jimmy of war days, the quick-kicking, bright-eyed and handsome Jimmy Blair in his natty aviator's uniform. Would she ever see him again as he was then, his brown eyes sparkling with intelligence and the joy of living? Or would he remain always as he was now, just the husk, the empty, unthinking shell of his old self?
Her heart sickened at the thought of such a possibility, such a bitter fate. She would almost—But, no! She caught herself up. Alive, there was always a chance, always a living hope. But dead—No, no, she told herself, she would rather have him even this way than not to have him at all.
The first of the three special officers detailed for guard duty over Jimmy Blair, arrived at the Lynn home just before six o'clock that evening. He took up his post in the spacious hall, on one side of which a soft coal fire in a huge grate threw off a comforting warmth and lent a cheerful atmosphere to the place. To reach the room occupied by Jimmy on the second floor, one would have to pass through this hall. Looking at the officer's burly uniform, Pat and Margery experienced a sense of security they had not felt since Jimmy's coming to the house. Old Maxy's claws were cut too short for scratching in that direction, at all events, they assured each other.

But Foxy Maxwell was a versatile villain, as Pat and her friends had been given plenty of evidence. Failure on their part, so far, to fully appreciate his cleverness, had cost Pat heavily.
It was to cost even more heavily. The hotel where Madame Leclerc had taken up her abode upon her arrival in New York, was petite and exclusive. The exquisitely furnished office was located on the second floor and reached by a wide staircase and an elevator. Pat and Margery left the big limousine at the curb, with Bill Perkins at the wheel, and ran hurriedly up the stairs. They were already ten minutes behind the scheduled time for meeting their friends as they approached the clerk's desk and Margery asked that functionary to call Madame Leclerc's room and inform her that the Misses Blair and Lynne were awaiting her.

The expression on the clerk's face as he looked at the exceedingly pretty and expensively dressed girls was baffling. He seemed both surprised and embarrassed.
"Why, really," he managed finally. "I hardly know just what to say to you. However, this is the situation: A telephone call came last evening at 7:30 o'clock for Madame Leclerc, from a Miss Blair. It was a request to tell the Madame that Miss Blair wished to see her as soon as possible; for her to call a taxi and 'come to the house.' The girl at the switchboard took the message and reported it to the night clerk, who immediately called Madame in her room and repeated it to her. She told him to order a taxi and five minutes later she came down, entered the taxi and—that's the last seen of her. When the maid reported her absence this morning—that her room had not been occupied—we were naturally worried. Not because of the bill, necessarily—she has baggage covering that—but the circumstances are unusual, not in keeping with the hotel's policy. But if one of you is Miss Blair, then perhaps—" He paused tentatively, an inquiring gleam in his eyes.

Margery, her own eyes filled with a strange, new apprehension, turned and looked at her friend, who was staring in wide eyed wonderment at the clerk.
"But I—didn't call Madame last night!" stuttered Pat protesting, almost indignantly. Her gaze shifted, encountering that of Margery, who signalled her a warning glance. The ex-war nurse turned back to the clerk.
"Something of a very serious nature must have happened to Madame Leclerc," she said, succeeding by a mighty effort in keeping her own voice from trembling. "Otherwise she would be here waiting for us today. Someone has made unauthorized use of Miss Blair's name to enquire Madame away from the hotel. It is a matter for police investigation. I'm sure, and as soon as we've told the friends we are to meet, we'll report it to the police at once! You needn't worry about her hotel bill, that will be taken care of!"
She placed a hand on Pat's arm. "We must hurry, dear," she said in a low tone, and with a nod to the puzzled clerk she piloted her friend to the stairway and down to the waiting car. Ten minutes later they were excitedly recounting the particulars attaching to this last piece of devilry on the part of Maxwell. For there had been no question in the mind of either Margery or Pat from the moment the clerk had spoken as to who was responsible for Madame Leclerc's disappearance. The question that bothered them all was: Why had the Madame been picked as a victim of the Fox's machinations?

"My face is my fortune, sir," she said.
Which explains why her weekly salary check is $10,000 per. Week not year!

Was born in Texas, Tex., the ugly duckling child of Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin. Now called the one beautiful woman on the screen. Childhood ambition was to be an artist. At age of 14 painted a full length portrait and presented it to her mother. Discovered it several days later hidden in a closet. Was so hurt that she buried her brushes and has never used them since.

Interior Decorator
Studied interior decoration. Renovated her twelve-room home in Beverly Hills from an Italian villa into a French chateau. Is furnished in early French and Venetian. All the doors are hand-carved 17th century imported from Venice, where they once graced a dog's palace.

Takes her Saturday night bath in bathroom of gold moire silk walls with black marble and gold fixtures. 'Tis rumored that Cecil De Mille wants to rent it for one of his pictures.

Despises nicknames, platitudes, sensational publicity and gaga in general. Adores French architecture, French furniture, French cooking, snails.

Owens some of the most valuable table cloths in the world. Has priceless one of lace interwoven with all the characters from "The Divine Lady." Took eleven months to make. Is bequeathing it to a museum.

Boasts the finest collection of different species of lilies in California. And can spell and pronounce the Latin name of each.

Designs most of her own clothes. Hates to chop. Orders everything over the telephone and makes selection in her own home.

Corinne's "Whoopee Room"
Has modernistic game room called "Whoopee Room." Only "whoopees" indulged in to date are the "wild" games of anagrams and charades.

Is one of the few stars in Hollywood who does not have to be on the set until 10 in the morning and can leave promptly at 5. Her boss is Walter Morosco. P. S.—He is also her husband.

Has never been seen in public with any other man during all the years of her marriage. Lunches with him every day in her six-room studio bungalow at the studios.

Treasures a six-page letter from E. Barrington complimenting her on work in "The Divine Lady." At so prizes one from Franz Molnar.

CORINNE GRIFFITH

Likes athletics even though she isn't the type. All the king's horses couldn't keep her from a good football game and all the king's men couldn't lure her from a tennis court when there is a game in progress.
Has four wire haired terriers, a Doberman Pinscher, a German pointer dog and a Cairn terrier. Wants a baby some day.
A bronze mold of her left hand is paper weight on Walter Morosco's desk. Has the trimmest pair of ankles in Hollywood.
Is known as the orchid lady of the silver screen. Always chews gum on the set.

EAST END NEWS
The Church Aid Society of Middle Run Baptist Church will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Geneva Thomas, E. Market St.
Members of the choir of Zion Baptist Church will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, for rehearsal.

The Theater

You may, and probably do, have your own opinion regarding the most beautiful star in the motion picture firmament but the actors, actresses, extras, electricians, technicians, editors, cameramen, directors and producers of Hollywood itself, who, by the way, ought to know, cast their votes for Corrine Griffith.

The Hollywood staff of Photoplay Magazine spent a month in polling the cinema village to arrive at this result. While the ma-inches tall, weighs 125 pounds and has golden brown hair and blue eyes—the only blonde type in the quartet. She entered American pictures four years ago after experience in her homeland. Her family name is Gustafsson.

"Half Way to Heaven", with Buddy Rogers and Jean Arthur at the Bijou Sunday and Monday, probably set a precedent. It has no theme song and the performers did not suddenly burst into song without excuse, just to show they could sing.

Twenty Years '10- Ago -'30

Mr. Andrew Grapevine, who has just finished a course at a Dayton commercial college, has resumed his place at the office of the Xenia Star Nursery as bookkeeper and stenographer.

Although Richard, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. LeSourd, who has been ill for several weeks, is now able to be up, his brother, William, has been taken ill with the mumps.

Traffic on the railroads has again settled down to normal schedule after the serious congestion caused by the heavy snows and for the first time in two weeks all the trains came into Xenia on time Friday morning.

Mr. Charlie Thompson, of Orange St., is out again after a few days' illness with the grip.

TESTS VALIDITY OF WILL; ASK DIVORCE HERE; COURT NEWS

Suit contesting validity of the alleged last will of the late Clara Hatch, who died February 16, 1929, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Clara O. McDorman against Charles G. Hatch, as executor of the estate and as an individual, Ethel O. Lee, Harold Oldham and Fred Sutton.

According to the petition the decedent left an estate and left the plaintiff as well as the defendant, Charles G. Hatch, a son, and the other defendants, all grandchildren, as her next of kin and only heirs.

It is claimed that a paper purporting to be the last will bearing the date March 11, 1924 and admitted to probate March 1, 1929, is not actually the valid last will and the plaintiff, declaring the son, Charles, was named the sole legatee by terms of the document, asks that it be set aside. George H. Smith is attorney for the plaintiff.

NEGLECT CHARGED

Gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty is charged in a suit for divorce filed in Common Pleas Court by Ocie J. Gross against Richard E. Gross. They were married May 23, 1914. The plaintiff seeks reasonable alimony and asks to be awarded custody of their minor children, Lewis, 15, and Adelaide, 11.

EXECUTOR NAMED

F. Harbison Hagenbuch, Middletown, Ind., a brother, has been appointed executor of the estate of Dr. William Harbison Hagenbuch, former resident of Beaver Creek Twp., who died recently in Mentone, France, being dispensed with in Probate Court. John A. Nisbet, F. B. Clemmer and Paul H. Creswell were named appraisers of the estate. The will, admitted to probate, disposes of an estate valued at $100,000.

APPOINT ADMINISTRATORS

John Derrick has been named administrator of the estate of Margaret E. Derrick, late of Xenia, and has filed bond of $35,500 in Probate Court. John A. Nisbet, H. L. Binder and A. W. Tresise were appointed appraisers by the court. H. L. Hackett has been appointed administrator of the estate of John A. Downey, late of Yellow Springs, with bond of $2,500. C. H. Hackett, E. K. Fogg and E. A. Oster were named appraisers.

SALE AUTHORIZED

Earl Dunevant, as administrator of the estate of Samuel E. Dunevant, deceased, has been authorized in Probate Court to sell personal property belonging to the estate at private sale for not less than the appraised value.

NOVELIST ASSERTS PUBLIC CONTINUES TO "PLAY" MARKET

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
I. N. Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1930, by I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The newly acquired national habit of playing the stock market has not passed despite the recent Wall St. decline, in the opinion of Arthur Train, novelist.

For fifteen years (1900-1915), Train was one of New York's most famous criminal prosecutors.

"The desire to get something for nothing persists," said Train in an interview.

Train listed the causes for the playing-the-market fever as follows:

The cleaning up of the financial fraud gangs. (Train helped do it under District Attorney William Travers Jerome.)

The radio with its facilities for immediate distribution of stock market prices.

The teaching of the public how to invest through the Liberty Bond drives during the World War.

The preaching of the gospel of common stocks.

The novelist doesn't play the market himself.

"I am too busy writing," he said. "If a man doesn't work to get his money I believe he is fundamentally unhappy."

Train has just finished "Paper Profits" (Horace Liveright), a novel of Wall St. dealing with "the hysteria of speculation."

The novelist asserted that in a market slump "the white collar type suffers more than the big wigs."

Recalling his contacts with the criminal world while prosecutor, Train said the present "crooks" are brainier than the old types.

"However, there were 'rackets' in the old days but they were not on such a monumental scale as they are today," he said.

"One gang had a cute financial racket which they worked over and over again until we broke it up by sending them to jail."

"They would tell a sucker that a sick engineer had some of the stock which he might be willing to sell on account of needing ready money."

"The sucker would say: 'I'll buy it if I can be sure of somewhere to sell it.' The capper would suggest he try the headquarters of the alleged company. Down at headquarters a pompous official would tell the victim he would buy all the stock he can get at $95 a share."

"The sucker would then visit the sick engineer and pick up the stock for $25 a share. Of course, when he went back to headquarters he would find everything was cleared out but the windows."

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Jamestown News

Mrs. A. G. Carpenter received word this week that her daughter, Mrs. Grace Penfold, of Dayton, in company with ten ladies of Dayton and Detroit left Thursday on the Flamingo for Miami Beach, Fla., to meet Mrs. Charles T. Kettering and to be her guests at the Flamingo Hotel for a few days. From there they sail on the Olive K., the new Kettering yacht, for a cruise to the West Indies.

The Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. E. Syferd and her group members. A splendid program was given.

The Ever Ready Class of the Friends Church held its regular meeting with Miss Mary Alice Earley at the home of Mrs. William Kelly on Thursday evening of last week. After the business session, a covered dish supper was served. Games and music was in play throughout the evening.

Miss Edwina Weimer spent the week-end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hammon in Cedarville.

Mrs. Carey Thompson was a delightful hostess to members of the Advance Club at her home Monday afternoon. Responses were: "Interesting Places I have Visited", "America's Singing Towers" by Mrs. Smith, "The Appalachian Trail" by Mrs. Reeves, "The Great Falls of the Potomac" by Mrs. J. A. Carpenter.

Rev. L. L. Gray, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church, with several men of his congregation attended a meeting held Monday evening at the First U. P. Church in Xenia for the officers and workers of the district. After the meeting a delicious supper was served.

The Neighboring Club met Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Norris Jones. A delicious covered dish supper was served after which games and contests were in play throughout the evening.

About forty neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Florence Binegar Wednesday evening to bid them farewell before they move to their new location which is near South Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Larick entertained a company of relatives to dinner Sunday. Those included were: Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Perkins and daughter Miss Gladys of Osborn, Mr. George Finney and Mrs. Mattie Carr of Columbus.

Practical Beauty

STEEL and crystal symphonies are swept across the nation's highways by the power of a half billion horses. An entire people is transported from the home to the job and back again by a mechanistic colossus. At the wheel, his hands taut, his mind alert, his spirit gloriously free, is tiny Man, directing the prodigious force he has himself created.

All this is the result of an industry that demands the most from great engineering minds. The result can be seen this week at Xenia's 1930 Automobile Show.

BOY ONCE TERMED FAILURE IS NOW NATION'S VICE PRESIDENT

DENVER, Feb. 26.—A bold little boy scrambled on a pony, dug his bare heels into its flanks and dashed off across the darkened prairie. He had been told by an aged Indian woman to "get a horse and get out" because he'd "never amount to anything."

That was how Charlie Curtis—now Vice President Charles Curtis of the United States—left the Kaw Indian tribe and went to Topeka, Kansas.

The story was told by James H. Bailey, second cousin of the vice president and a local post office employee.

"Charlie rode the seventy miles to Topeka. He was just thirteen years old, but it was not the first time that he had started out across the bald prairie alone.

"When he reached Topeka he did odd jobs, studying law during his spare time with Hibb Case, then a prominent Kansas attorney, and doing his best to get ahead. He worked diligently, earnestly, and when he was twenty-four years old, he was elected public prosecuting attorney at Topeka. Nor did he stop there. He soon afterward was elected to congress.

"Charlie's at the top now," people used to say in Topeka, then. "Look at him, he's in congress."

"But Charlie wasn't at the top of the heap then, and people have learned it, too. He wasn't going to stop there. After about eight years in the lower house he went into the senate, and now he's vice president of the United States.

"I didn't see Charlie Curtis for thirty-five years before he came to Denver during the campaign of 1928. The last time I saw him before that was when he was riding across the bridge at Topeka. He was young and handsome and as straight as an arrow.

"When I saw him here—met him and talked to him at the hotel—he was stooped, and showed the years were upon him.

"Charlie is just a good, old fashioned, common man. He's ready to help anybody that will play square with him and he'll sacrifice lots of time to be of service to others.

"I remember when I was delivering mail up at Boulder, there was a Mrs. Sanderson, whose husband was a freighter across the plains in the good old days. She had a lot of Indian degradation claims against the government, but her congressman didn't seem to want to do anything about it.

"Finally she decided to go to Washington herself to see what could be done. I gave her a letter of introduction to Charlie. When she returned she said he lost no time in getting the claims through and getting her money for her."

Bailey is thirteen years younger than his cousin. Vice President Curtis was seventy years old in January; Bailey will be fifty-seven in June.

"They tell this story of what happened in Council Grove, Kas., before I was born," Bailey continued. "One day the Kaws heard that a rival tribe was coming down to wipe out Charlie's people, Charlie, then just 10 years old, started out afoot to Topeka—seventy miles away—to get help. There wasn't anything between Council Grove and Topeka but a lot of prairie and coyotes.

"But he never got there. The warring Indians came, but were turned back and some of Charlie's tribesmen set out to find him and bring him back."

Bailey explained the meaning of Kaw, which also explains Curtis' attitude toward America's efforts toward world peace.

"The Kaws were a branch of the Osage Indians," he said. "They were a peaceable people, who preferred to let the other branch do the fighting. Finally the two branches split and the Osages called the Curtis' people Kaws, which is Indian for coward. But Charlie is no coward!"

"Charlie is not a half-breed Indian, as some mis-statements have said. His mother was only half Indian. Curtis' grandfather was a full blooded Frenchman and his grandmother was a full blood Kaw, which made Charlie quarter-blood French and quarter-blood Indian."

Next week's meeting will be held in the basement of the Court House at 7:15 p. m. Who is entitled to wear a Scout uniform and what some of the Scouting objectives mean are two of the problems to be discussed next week.

SCOUT TRAINING COURSE CLASS HELD ON MONDAY EVENING

"Scouter Witham came over here and help to judge some of these knot boards." This was an example of the commands given at the third session of the Greene County Boy Scout training class held at the Court House Monday night.

Each man in the class is given the title, "Scouter," during this series of Monday night classes. A fine of ten cents is collected from each person who fails to address his fellow Scouts in this manner.

Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury opened the meeting with three Scout training games. Afterward Boyd Young, Springfield, Scout leader and teacher in the Springfield senior high school, gave an interesting narrative concerning map-making. He also gave a detailed report concerning this first class Scout requirement.

"A certain amount of good pedagogy must be used in map-making and its discipline," declared Mr. Young, who is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, national professional education fraternity.

Making knot boards was the chief material work done by the Scout leaders. Scouter Adrian G. Lebold, chaplain of Troop No. 45, was adjudged to have the best knot board of all the contestants.

Among those present were: Archer Maxwell, G. P. Fowler, A. E. Cheney, Osborn, J. H. Honaker, Merrill L. Dawson, Carl S. Pramer, E. A. Roberts, R. H. Kingsbury, Glenn R. Johnson, John Vanderpool, Ansteth M. Patterson, Clarence F. Bay, Adrian G. Lebold, Robert R. Finlay, G. W. Kuhn, S. A. Elyen, Dr. J. A. Yoder, E. L. Blackburn, Paul McFarland, H. K. Snyder, J. F. Molitor, K. E. Witham, D. W. Cherry, H. E. Eichman, Dr. W. A. Galloway and Homer T. Graiz.

Next week's meeting will be held in the basement of the Court House at 7:15 p. m. Who is entitled to wear a Scout uniform and what some of the Scouting objectives mean are two of the problems to be discussed next week.

OHIO WOOL GROWERS MEET IN COLUMBUS

The annual meeting of the Ohio Wool Growers Co-operative Association and the Ohio Livestock Co-operative Association will be held at the Neil House, Columbus, February 26, 27 and 28.

The farm board, new federal legislation, the tariff, the National Wool Marketing Corporation, the National Livestock Marketing Association now in the process of organization, consumer demands as they pertain to meats, and membership responsibilities and relationships will be topics of discussion, as will local and state problems of operation and marketing.

Men nationally prominent in all phases of marketing have been secured to speak before the sessions and lead the discussions.

J. R. Kimber, president of the Greene County Co-operative Livestock Shipping Association will represent the organization at the state meeting while David C. Bradfute, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau will represent Greene County at the state wool meeting. Others attending the meeting will be A. A. Conklin, L. E. Evans and Frank Creswell.

Dry Agent Suspended

On orders from Washington, Charles Hindley, above, federal dry agent of the Des Moines, Ia., office, has been suspended. He fired the shot which was responsible for the wounding of Miss Nellie Church, 25, Knoxville, Ia., nurse. She was shot when the auto in which she was riding careened against and swept past that in which Hindley was riding.

SINCLAIR LEWIS, NOVELIST, TELLS HOW TO BECOME SUCCESSFUL WRITER

CARMEL-by-the-Sea, Cal.—Feb. 26.—Sinclair Lewis, the Sauk Center, Minn., boy who went from city to city before making good as a novelist with such books as "Main Street," "Babbitt," "Arrowsmith," "Elmer Gantry" and others, has ideas—definite ideas—on how to attain success as a writer.

Here are a few words of advice Lewis dropped while dropping putts on the Pebble Beach golf course here:

"Write like hades. Get an old typewriter for $10, steal pencils, if necessary, and rifle grocery store ash cans for wrapping paper to write on.

"Writing requires the cheapest capital of any business in the world. Send your stuff to editors. If it's any good they will snap it up and bound you for more. That's how tough editors are."

In regard to the value of newspaper reporting, Lewis had this to say as he scrambled out of a sand trap:

"I think H. L. Mencken is right when he says four years of reporting are enough for any man who wants to write. It's not helpful after that. With foreign correspondents, it's different."

Recalling his early days as a struggling writer in Carmel-by-the-sea, Lewis said that for six months he was unable to sell anything and finally found himself with but $10.

"And that was no joke. I was living here with William Rose Benet, Bill and I did our own washing and, sometimes, our own cooking. The latter was terrible."

After leaving here, Lewis said he obtained jobs reporting in San Francisco.

"I was sorry and got fired," Lewis admitted. "I could handle assignments I liked, but wasn't worth two cents on general reporting."

Lewis plans to begin work soon on a new novel.

PICTURES ARRIVE FOR CHURCH LECTURE

Colored stereopticon pictures of the Philippines for the illustrated talk on "The Pearl of the Orient Seas," to be given at the Presbyterian Church, Market and King Sts., Wednesday evening by Rev. Wm. H. Tilford, arrived Wednesday.

Young people are invited, especially since the Christmas project of the Sunday School concerned itself with the sending of eleven treasure chests for the Philippine island boys and girls through the World Fellowship for Children.

The pictures will show some of the homes into which these treasure chests will go. The missionary organizations of the church are sponsoring the service.

SMARTER BODY TYPE FEATURE OF FORDS ● AT MOTOR DISPLAY

Presentation at the Auto Show of new and smarter body types and a group of new colors for the Model A Ford was announced today by Thearl White, local Ford dealer, who emphasized the fact that no mechanical change is contemplated in the car because of the thoroughly satisfactory performance it has been giving.

He described the car as follows: "Redesigned along ultra modern lines, the new bodies will have a distinctly refreshing appearance, with all the beauty and charm of contour line and proportion usually associated only with custom coachwork and large cars."

Entire Front Raised
"The entire front of the Model A is raised and in beautiful proportion to the new body types. Moulding treatment is new, and fenders of more generous dimensions, flowing with the lines of the car, new treatment in the contour and sweep of the bodies, with a graceful forward pitch, gives the impression of fleetness."

"Every line from the flat radiator cap to the tip of the low graceful curve of the rear fenders is new, clear, and extremely smart."

Rustless steel will be used for radiator shell, headlamps, hub caps, and all other parts. The new will stay so for in this rustless steel the chromium is not on the outside, like a thin veneer, but is alloyed with iron. Moisture, whether from water, steam, ice or snow will not rust it.

Change In Radiator
"Perhaps the most striking change to catch the eye is the new radiator. Still retaining the Ford individuality of the contour of the shell is extremely attractive, blending beautifully with the new fender lines and other changes. The top follows somewhat the lines of the old shell, with narrower lines down each side, which curve to a juncture at the starter opening in the center of the lower section."

"The general effect is one of greater height and less width, which combined with the sweeping curves, contributes much to the firmness and smartness of the whole car."

"This effect is heightened by a sturdy tie rod, finished in black enamel, which rises in a graceful arch from each fender. It supports a license bracket and the headlights, which are higher than before."

Sturdier, Smaller Wheels
"Additional strength has been built into the body by the construction of the cowl, the sides of which extend in one piece up along the windshield pillar to the roof line. Not only does this give rigidity, but it reduces the possibility of squeaks. While cowl are standard equipment on the Town Sedan and Cabriolet, all body types have been wired for them, and they may be installed at small cost.

"A sturdy, compact design of the wheels has been produced. They are smaller in diameter and consequently nearer the road. As before, they are made complete, in one piece, all of the steel spokes being electrically welded to the hub shell and rim. The angle at which the spokes are placed helps to distribute the force of road shocks and gives greater strength."

Easy Riding Qualities
"With the use of the smaller wheels the tire size has been increased from 4.50x21 balloon to 4.75x19 balloon. This adds to the comfort of the passengers in a car already remarkable for its easy riding qualities."

"A variety of colors has been added and may be obtained by the purchaser without additional cost. Much study has been given to this matter and an especial effort made to please the eye of motorists."

"The most notable changes in the body types have been made in the Tudor Sedan, the Coupes and the open cars."

Tudor Sedan, Roomier
"The Tudor Sedan, most popular of the five passenger closed cars is longer. More room has been given for occupants of the rear compartment. Access is easier around the folding seats in front. In its exterior appearance, the car is much improved. It still retains the crown roof effect with rounded corners on the rear quarter, the beauty of which is accentuated by new body belt and moulding treatment."

"The Coupe is entirely new, with lower roof line. French roof quarters emphasize the low effect and the long lines of the new moulding treatment. Panel effects carried out by the moulding on the rear deck adds much to the smart appearance of the car. No headroom has been sacrificed inside by the lowering of the roof line, and driving is made more comfortable by an adjustable seat."

Open Cars Are New
"The Sport Coupe, which has a rumble seat as standard equipment, has all the lower body lines of the coupe. The two open cars, Phaeton and Roadster are entirely new in design, with long, lower lines and more beautiful appearance."

"On these cars, the new moulding, flowing back from the radiator, joins the body belt in a panel at the cowl, giving a streamline effect."

"No change will be made in the price of the various types."

SCOUT MEETING

A full attendance is urged at the weekly meeting of Troop No. 41, Boy Scouts of America, at the Scout cabin Wednesday night. A good program has been arranged and all Scouts are to bring their handbooks and a piece of rope suitable for knot tying. Registration cards are available for the following Scouts: William Anderson, Robert Crawford, John Cleveland, Donald Jones, Ervin Marshall, John Arment, Kenneth Swigart, David Cherry, Kenneth Thomas, Harold Miller and John Hupman.

HUDSON AND ESSEX BECOME POPULAR IN FEW SHORT WEEKS

The new line of Hudson Eights and Essex Challengers has attained great popularity in a few short weeks.

"How beautiful!"—"How distinctive!"—"How modern." These are the exclamations heard when these new bodies are viewed for the first time. Women particularly praise them as they praise a new frock or a beautiful jewel. Then with their eye for detail and their intuitive good taste for all that is smart and of rich quality, they pronounce these the gems they are.

Individual color choice at no extra cost. So wide is the variety of colors available on Hudson and Essex cars, that every buyer has virtually his own choice at no extra cost.

The popularity attained, according to Mr. Chappel of the Chappel Motor Co., is attributed to the superb finish on the bodies of steel, the luxurious comfort and durability of the upholstery, the ease of operation and performance. These cars must have real merits to be so popular.

You Must Ride in it then no lesser car can satisfy

You must ride in the New Essex Challenger to know what this price buys. Every minute of the time you will be impressed with how much more it gives—more in speed—in fast get-away—more in size, roominess and conveniences of personal comfort—more in completeness, good looks and fine appointment.

It means you will never be content with any lesser car. How vastly it differs from any other car of low price.

That is why it is the most talked of—most widely compared car of the year.

Victorious was the first Challenger. Instant the success of the New Essex Challenger.

In every test that counts—Performance, looks, value, price.

With entirely new lines from radiator and fenders to tail light and from road to the lowered roof line, it challenges interest. Its distinctive appearance scores in that count.

For complete thoroughness and fineness in every detail outside and in—for painstaking attention to fitness and beauty, it compares with the costliest.

In performance the New Essex Challenger is just as advanced. There is more power. It gives more in every performance range. These extra margins save any sense of effort, mean longer life.

The challenge rings out for all to accept. The New Essex Challenger is a "show me car" that demands its right to prove. The price is within the reach of everyone.

DODGE CARS AMONG MOST INTERESTING BEING SHOWN HERE

From an engineering standpoint the new Dodge cars are among the most interesting offerings that the industry has to make this year. Combining a background of reliability that has become a byword in connection with Dodge Brothers products, with a reputation for advanced engineering, the new cars embody just about everything the art has to offer.

Nothing is ever approved by the Dodge Brothers organization that will not go out and add to its reputation for the dependability of its products. Nothing has been accepted in the new cars that does not measure up to the latest standards of engineering excellence.

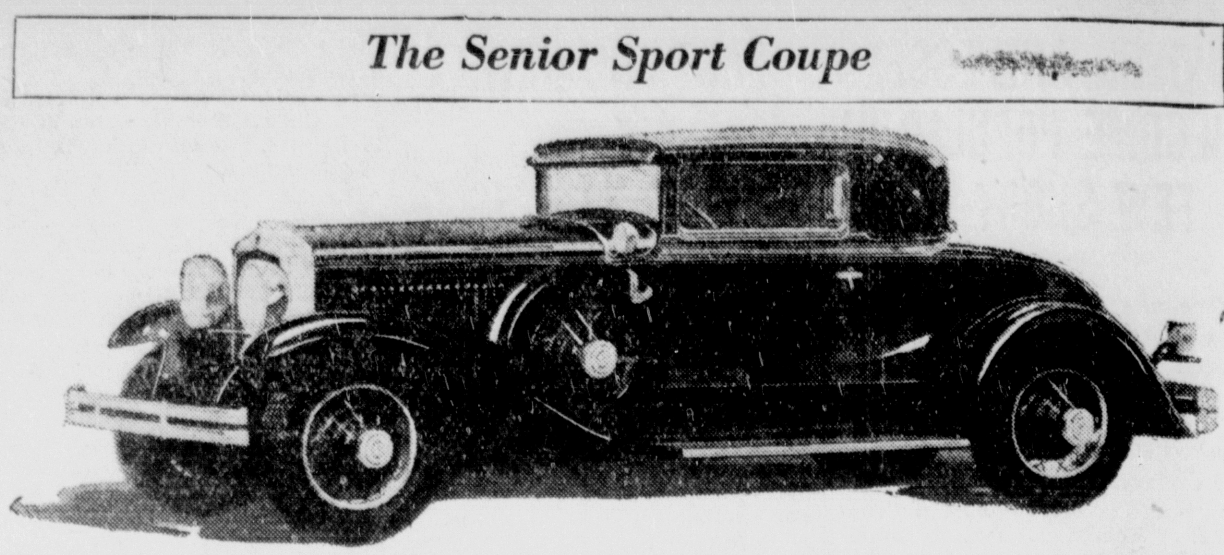

The new engines for this year incorporate the most modern type of combustion chamber head, providing sufficient compression for efficiency and economy as well as power output without in any way rendering the engine sensitive to carbon. Quick combustion of the fuel, which materially aids the efficiency of the engine has been secured by shaping the combustion chamber to avoid pockets. This combination of compression ratio and shape of head has resulted in a fine-performing smooth engine.

Another feature of the new Dodge lines which will merit attention is the layout of the carburetor and manifolds. The breathing capacity of the engine due to the generous size of the carburetor, the absence of restriction in the intake ports and manifold has been responsible for the ability of the engine to show fine torque characteristics and to carry its horsepower curve up to a high rotational speed before the power starts to drop off.

The new Eight employs down-draft carburetion and this has resulted in higher volumetric efficiency. This system of carburetion is also a factor in the fine acceleration characteristics possessed by this entirely new car. A feature which helps secure the most out of the engine from a performance standpoint is the manifold heat control.

It is the belief of Dodge engineers that ample provision must be made in present-day cars for reducing the period required for warming up the engine to the least possible time. Control of the manifold temperature is the most effective means of getting the engine to warm up quickly as after a few explosions, the incoming gas is preheated and enters the cylinders as a dry vapor. This sort of mixture burns easily and will not contribute to crankcase dilution. Thorough ventilation of crankcases on the new Dodge engines completes the preheating arrangement for keeping foreign matter out of the crankcase where it can mix with the oil.

Dodge cars the characteristics of advanced engineering can be readily detected. The ventilated bridge-type pistons of light alloy is one instance. Other examples are chrome-nickel steel inlet and silchrome steel exhaust valves, camshaft-driven fuel pump with a visible sediment trap, thorough rust-proofing of entire car, and a highly developed hydraulic four-wheel brake system. The hydraulic internal-expanding four-wheel brake representing the culmination of years of effort to provide a trouble-proof, effective brake system, is used on Dodge Brothers cars, because of the perfect equalization provided. All of the excellent mechanical development that has gone into the engine and the chassis of the new Dodge cars would be lost unless it was mounted on a fine foundation. For this reason we must mention the unusually well-designed, rigid frame employed. The side rails on the new eight are seven inches deep and there are six cross members.

The Dodge Brothers Senior Sport Coupe with rumble seat, is a versatile car for two or four passengers. Adequate storage room is provided by a locker door on the righthand side for golf equipment or luggage. The rear quarters are finished in fabric with landau top iron. Two spare wire wheels with tires mounted in the front fender wells are standard equipment.

She's "Miss Oregon"

Miss Marjorie Dana, University of Oregon student, really has a right to the title "Miss Oregon," since she is the daughter of a pioneer Oregon family. The title was awarded her at the state's seventy-first birthday party, at Portland.

CLIFTON

One of the old landmarks of this village was taken down when the barn of Mr. Dellmar Stewart, was torn away to make room for a new garage. This building was originally on Clay St., and part of the "Old Tavern" in which Isaac Funk, of the publishing house of Funk and Wagnalls, New York, was born. Rev. and Mrs. E. G. McKibben, of Bellaire, Ohio, visited Miss Florence White last Saturday and Sabbath. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. T. S. Robe, of Frazeeburg, who remained for a few days.

Mrs. Elizabeth Herring was buried from the M. E. Church last Tuesday after an illness of a week. Mrs. Herring was a kind, faithful and industrious woman and her death means a loss to the village. Mr. A. E. Swaby returned from a trip to Chicago last week. Mr. Charles Hatfield has rented his farm to Mr. Ralph Ault. He will hold a sale next Tuesday. Mrs. Rebecca Ferryman, who for a number of years resided in this community, was buried in Clifton Cemetery last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. M. Ault, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Ault and Mrs. Warren Printz, entertained the Second Auxiliary at her home last Wednesday afternoon.

to be given by the seniors of Bryan High School in the auditorium Monday evening, March 3rd. A good attendance is desired. Be on time as the program will start at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Anna T. Garlough will have a sale of some household goods at her home on Center College St., Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Garlough has rented her property to D. W. Brannum who will move here from the country. Mrs. Garlough is living with Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Lewis in Clifton. The special services that have been held in the Methodist Church for the past two weeks closed Sunday evening. Rev. W. N. Mantle of New Jasper conducted these meetings. The new Yellow Springs Theater, owned and operated by our townsman, Dick Denison, held its opening show "The Love Doctor" Saturday afternoon. The theater is quite up-to-date, it has a very attractive entrance and beautifully decorated inside. A place of this kind is a credit to our little city.

The Spring Valley High School basketball teams motored here Friday evening when they played the Bryan High School teams. The Spring Valley boys won by a score of 35 to 28. The Bryan High girls scored an easy victory over the Spring Valley girls with a score of 38 to 21. The Greene County basketball tournament will be held at Xenia Friday and Saturday. Nine boys' and girls' teams throughout the county will enter into the game. The Bryan High boys and girls are hoping they will make a good showing at the tournament. The girls have made a wonderful record this year. They have only one defeat against them.

The ladies of St. Paul's Church will entertain with a euchre and 500 party in the basement of their church Wednesday evening. Mrs. J. W. Patton went to Dayton Tuesday where she spent the day with her mother, Mrs. Priest, who celebrated her 85th birthday. The friends here will be glad to know that Mrs. Priest is well and enjoyed having her children with her and was much interested in the presents she received.

Mrs. S. V. Cox, Buffalo, N. Y., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Lucile Carter. Miss Helen Gerhardt who is attending Jacobs' Business College in Dayton, spent the week-end with her mother.

Miss Helen Anderson left Thursday for Chicago, Ill., where she will take a course in nurses training.

Mrs. C. H. Ellis who has been at the Smith Sanatorium for a two weeks' rest, has returned to her home on Whiteman St.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Peterson entertained at six o'clock dinner Wednesday, Rev. and Mrs. W. N. Mantle, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Patton, Miss Olivia Cox and Miss Irene Hawes.

Mrs. Marian Wells and little son, who have been here on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Clarence Anderson left Friday for her home in McRea, Georgia.

Mr. A. B. Sparrow of Columbus spent Sunday here with relatives. Mrs. John Snyder is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joe Bertrand and family in Madison, Wis.

NEW DURANT BODIES CLAIM ATTENTION AT AUTO SHOW HERE

A definite aim was achieved in developing the bodies for the new Durant cars now on display at the Johnston Motor Co. exhibit at the Auto Show, according to Durant body engineers. The aim was to combine the great strength of all steel body construction with certain inherent advantages of wood frame construction, without introducing any of the latent opportunities for creaks, squeaks and rattles.

The entire cowl and front pillar assembly, the sedan center or lock pillar, the wheel housing and rear kick-up sill construction and the doors are all steel. Wood is used only for such body structural parts as sills, roof rails, rear panel belt rails and seat and rear window framing.

"Great structural strength and safety" the Durant body engineer explains "are the outstanding characteristics of the cowl and front pillar assembly, on which the greater part of the body stresses and strains are concentrated. Front corner pillars are built up of two pressed steel channel members securely riveted and welded together to form a rigid, strong, box section. The entire cowl assembly, comprising corner pillars, panels, dash, cross rails, toe board supports, etc., is securely welded and riveted into a single unit which in turn is bolted through the main sills to the chassis frame with six bolts.

"Steel gusset plates of liberal size are used where front and side roof rails join corner pillars and elsewhere throughout the body frame to afford maximum strength. Where the other box section steel pillars join the sills and the roof rails, the foot plates or reinforcing attachment brackets are secured by wood screws, to insure absolutely against possible looseness and attendant noises.

"The all steel doors are proof against sagging or warping and in conjunction with the stiff, box section steel lock pillars and the well braced body frame construction, insure that the good fit and the even closing will be permanent.

"Freedom from any likelihood of rattles, rumbles and other body noises results from the cushioning and vibration dampening action of the seasoned, selected oak and rock maple used in the body frame and from the secure bolting of the wood members to the pillars, brackets, gussets and other strain carrying steel members. For example, four bolts are used on each side to secure the roof rails to the bracket at the top of the sedan center lock pillar and twenty-four bolts are used to secure roof rails to front cowl assembly and to the triangular steel corner reinforcing gussets. Every effort was made to insure strength, safety and permanent quietness—and it has been accomplished."

20th Century Jean Valjean

Charles Young, pictured with his wife and children, aged 46, escaped from an Auburn prison camp in New York State on March 9, 1920. After nine years spent in earning an honest living, during which time he has married and had four children, Young has fallen into the hands of New York authorities at Philadelphia and will be taken back to prison to serve the remaining year and a half of his three-year sentence. The identification of the escaped prisoner followed his arrest because of alleged stolen goods found in his possession.

OAKLAND EIGHT IS FAST BUT BOASTS LONG LIFE IS SAID

Although the new Oakland V-type Eight is one of the fastest cars on the road today, it also will prove one of the longest lived cars according to the statement of factory engineers. A million miles and more of test driving has provided ample proof of their assertion. Moderate engine speed and exceptionally short piston travel contribute importantly toward the durability of the new Eight, the engineers declare.

The big, high compression engine with its 251 cubic inches of piston displacement, develops eighty-five horsepower at only 3,200 revolutions per minute, a comparatively moderate motor speed as judged by present day standards.

Even more impressive is the new Oakland's piston travel of only 1.782 feet per mile. By the term piston travel per mile is meant the total distance that the piston moves up and down in its cylinder for each mile the car is driven on the road. The "square" bore to stroke ratio used in the new Oakland Eight engine has permitted the piston stroke to be reduced to only 3.8 inches or a total of 6.34 inches for the "round trip."

The average piston travel of American automobiles is somewhere in the neighborhood of 2.4 feet per mile. In the new Oakland Eight this figure has been reduced to 1.782 feet per mile. According to figures compiled by F. H. Kane, technical engineer for the Oakland Motor Car Company, each piston in the Oakland Eight engine will travel approximately 1,400 fewer miles during the course of a 12,000 mile year of driving than the average piston which travels 2,400 feet per mile. Since piston and cylinder wear are in direct proportion to piston travel, Mr. Kane points out that the Oakland enjoys an impressive advantage in this detail.

A further advantage provided by the Oakland's short piston travel, he says, is the reduction to a minimum of the internal strains and forces incident to engine operation. "And don't forget," he added, "when considering long engine life, that the Oakland Eight system of controlled pressure lubrication to every vital engine point including crankshaft, piston pins, valve operating parts and camshaft bearings, represents a further important contribution toward durability as do moderate motor speed and short piston travel."

HOW MUCH DO YOU WANT TO PAY?

The New Oakland Eight and the New Series Pontiac Big Six were designed to meet a wide variety of buying preferences both below $1000 and above. Whatever body type you select, you will receive an unusual degree of style, performance and all-round satisfaction. Each offers a generous measure of value for its price. It all depends on what you want to pay.

THE CAR WITH SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE

The New Oakland Eight develops one horsepower for every 37 pounds of car weight. As a result it offers speed, acceleration and hill-climbing ability which few cars can equal.

It is also exceptionally smooth. Its inherent eight-cylinder smoothness has been greatly increased by a down-draft carburetion system, patented laminated spring and rubber engine mountings and a new-type cylinder head which assures uniformity of combustion. The engineers who designed this power plant had 16 years' experience building fine eight-cylinder engines. Several of them had participated in creating General Motors' first eight-cylinder car in 1914.

The New Oakland's Fisher bodies are unusually smart and comfortable. They are two inches lower than previous Oakland bodies, and have a fleet, swagger appearance. Interiors are beautifully upholstered, in keeping with the car's high quality throughout.

To know what the moderate-price class offers, you must see and drive the New Oakland Eight. Arrange for a demonstration.

A FAMOUS NAME A FINER CAR

In this newest Pontiac you will find new smoothness, safety and beauty. You will find that it offers the impressive performance made possible by a sturdy, 60-horsepower engine. Yet beneath its improvements you will discover the same basic goodness which won such popularity for its predecessors.

New bodies by Fisher make this a more beautiful Pontiac. A new belt moulding emphasizes its stream-line contours. A choice of attractive new Duco color combinations is available at no extra cost.

The performance of the New Series Pontiac is smoother because of the improved type rubber mountings which now cradle the large, powerful engine. The car is safer because Pontiac's effective four-wheel brakes have been improved, and a sloping windshield has been adopted. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers of improved design, now standard equipment, increase the car's riding comfort.

Let your impressions of the New Series Pontiac Big Six guide you in considering low-priced sixes. Compare delivered prices and what you get for your money. Only then can you appreciate how much value the New Series Pontiac Big Six offers at its low price.

FOUNDRY RAZED BY FIRE; 100 JOBLESS

CRESTLINE, O. Feb. 26.—More than 100 men had today been thrown out of employment by a fire which completely destroyed the foundry of the Schill Brothers Stove and Furnace plant here last night. The fire was caused by a terrific explosion in the core oven room.

Damage was estimated at approximately $300,000. Four employees were in the plant when the explosion occurred, but all escaped injury.

The business district of Crestline was endangered by the fire for a time and fire apparatus from Gallon, Bucyrus and Shelby was called to stem the flames, which were partly checked by the heavy rain.

Included in the equipment which was destroyed, was a great quantity of patterns which were valued at $50,000.

FINAL BIBLE CLASS WILL BE THURSDAY

"Deliverance from Sin" will be the topic for the Bible Study Class at the home of Mrs. H. Earl Eavey, 105 W. Third St. Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The study will bring to a close the classes which have been held each week at the home of Mrs. Eavey. A volunteer committee is arranging for some district classes which will be announced later.

The "Davidic Covenant" will be the theme for study of the class taught by Mrs. Lella Quinn, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. B. D. Conklin, 24 E. Church St. Those attending the class are asked to note the change in the meeting place.

Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock Walter Watkins will continue his studies of "The Dispensations" at the evening class held at the home of Mrs. John Laycock, Hill St. All classes are open to the public.

The public has awaited the appearance of these cars with great interest.

People have been eager to see what type of motor car would be produced by the veteran executives who last year assumed control of Durant Motors.

Those familiar with the past achievements of these men expected a distinguished contribution to better motoring. And those who have seen the cars agree that even their highest expectations have been surpassed.

We cordially invite you to examine them and to experience the pleasure of a demonstration.

You will appreciate then how thoroughly they exemplify every fundamental of motor car excellence—Appearance, Performance, Comfort, Value.

GUIDES PLANES TO PORT IN FOG

Earl C. Hanson, of Chicago, has invented a device which he claims can be installed in any plane, enabling pilots to safely fly and land in the heaviest of fogs and in the dark. Two parallel cables are laid at the airport and energized, one constantly giving a series of dots, the other dashes. When the pilot is heading straight for the field he gets a continuous signal and another when he is directly over the port. Photo shows, left to right, William B. Stout, W. O'Brien, G. C. O'Connor and Hanson. E. P. Scott, test pilot, is showing how the apparatus works with a model plane and airport.

Acclaimed Europe's Most Beautiful Girl

Disappearance of Mrs. Mary McGranahan, top, youthful secretary of Dr. Ernest Watzl, below, missing Cleveland chemist and inventor, is retarding efforts of Cleveland police to locate him. Police are convinced he is alive although his charred automobile was found near Pottstown, Pa. The secretary is believed to have knowledge of his whereabouts.

They Met in Dry Law Debate

Senator S. W. Brookhart (left) of Iowa and Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York shaking hands after their recent debate on the prohibition law, in which the New Yorker, taking the wet side of the issue, was cheered and applauded almost continuously during his address. Brookhart, defending the dry cause and facing a hostile audience, received little support from his listeners. During the debate La Guardia threatened to leave the stage if the wilder element of the audience persisted in interrupting his opponent.

INVENTS NEW TELEVISION DEVICE

A group of Los Angeles film producers are investigating a television device of revolutionary principle, invented by Philo Farnsworth, 23, a Mormon scientist of San Francisco. Since the apparatus is said to produce the largest images yet attained in television, scientists expect that images large enough to make television practical can be produced in the future. Photo shows Farnsworth demonstrating the receiving mechanism of his invention at San Francisco.

Nephew of Trotsky Serves Uncle Sam W.C.T.U. Won't Furnish Proofs of Temperance

Although a nephew of Leon Trotsky, former leader of the Soviets, whom Uncle Sam persistently refused to recognize, this Russian refugee has offered his specialized services to the United States Army Hospital at Fort Bliss, Texas. He is Dr. R. N. Trotsky, who was practicing medicine and surgery in Russia when his uncle was banished.

Officials of the W. C. T. U. of New York State have refused to accept the challenge of Mrs. Charles T. Since his removal from office as Governor, Ferguson has been an unsuccessful candidate for the United States Senate and ran for President on the American Party ticket.

GENERAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR ALSO DISPLAYED AT SHOW

Electricity is conceded to be nature's greatest contribution toward the elimination of drudgery.

"Electric power is reducing the burden of human toil," Herbert Hoover once said. And this may be applied to our greatest institution, the American Kitchen.

Electricity has been applied successfully to every household task, minimizing the labor and giving more leisure hours to the home-maker.

The newest convenience in this Great American Kitchen is the electric refrigerator. A realization of the necessity for a dependable means of refrigeration has swept the country. Government health authorities and refrigerator manufacturers have impressed upon the public the dangers lurking in spoiled foods. The electric refrigerator is the most satisfactory solution to the problem of food preservation. A constant temperature of less than fifty degrees is maintained automatically, and the food kept in an electric refrigerator will remain fresh and wholesome for days.

Although electric refrigeration, ever since its inception, offered a solution to the problem of keeping food wholesome, until recently it was considered a luxury by many. People thought that only the wealthy could afford electric refrigerators. This attitude has changed. Every family realizes the value of proper food preservation and its relation to health. Because of this realization, 468,000 electric refrigerators were sold in 1928, representing an amount of $128,700,000, as against 365,000 electric refrigerators for 1927, which represented a total of $82,125,000 according to figures compiled by the Electrical Merchandise magazine.

"Electric refrigeration is designed to play the part of servant in addition to that of health keeper. Only 6 per cent of the country's 27,300,000 homes employ servants. The majority of housewives do their kitchen tasks unassisted. With electric refrigeration the daily seven miles traced on the kitchen floor is reduced to a minimum. The electric refrigerator, range and kitchen cabinet are conveniently arranged for combined beauty and efficiency.

"Meals can be planned in advance and the ingredients stored safely in the electric refrigerator. Vegetables and fruits can be bought at economical prices, and none is wasted if kept at the proper cold temperature."

The most highly developed of the electric refrigerators, The General Electric, will be displayed this week at the Auto Show by The Miller Electric, 32 W. Main St. Mr. Miller extends an invitation to every one to thoroughly examine the workings and benefits derived through the General Electric Refrigerator.

Farm Notes

SPRAYING PREVENTS PEACH LEAF CURL

Peach leaf curl is prevented by thoroughly spraying the trees with a lime-sulphur spray or a bordeaux oil spray before the buds are swollen. Since the fungus which causes this disease starts to grow into the leaves of the buds just as soon as the buds begin to swell, it is necessary to spray before this stage of the bud is reached.

The spray to use, according to H. C. Young, chief of the department of botany and plant pathology of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment, is liquid lime-sulphur at the rate of four gallons to fifty if scale of peach is not present, or six and one-fourth to fifty if scale is present.

Dry lime-sulphur is also recommended. It is applied at the rate of fifteen pounds to fifty if scale is present, or half that strength if not.

The bordeaux oil sprays should be used if mites are to be controlled. If mites are present, Dr. Young recommends a 4-6-50 oil. Oc-asionally, slight injury has resulted from the bordeaux oil combination. The spraying should be done when the temperature is above forty degrees Fahrenheit. So far, in the Station experiments, dusts have not been effective for the control of peach leaf curl.

WOMAN WED TWICE IS FACING CHARGE

Mrs. Hazel Terrell Coates Grooms, 17, will be given a hearing before Judge S. C. Wright in juvenile court Thursday afternoon on a charge of juvenile delinquency.

Authorities say the girl married Charles Coates when she was fifteen years of age, afterward was declared a delinquent by the court and then married Roy Grooms without the formality of a divorce. Because she is a minor the charge of delinquency is being pressed against her instead of the more serious charge of bigamy.

COMMISSION WILL CONSIDER PROBLEM

Question of responsibility of the city arising from a collision between a city fire truck and an automobile on S. Detroit St. last December 20, resulting in the injury of two girls, may be laid before City Commission Thursday night, by City Manager M. C. Smith, who took the matter under advisement following a public hearing in the commission chamber Monday night. Although the commission has been advised that no legal method exists by which the city can pay a claim for damages in such an accident, a "moral obligation" may be recognized if it is determined that the victims of the accident were without blame. A hearing was held in order that all evidence relating to the accident might be obtained as the first step in fixing responsibility for the accident and ascertaining whether the city is morally if not legally liable for damages.

KEEN INTEREST HERE BEING DISPLAYED IN OLDS AND VIKING

People now are deciding what automobile they will be driving during 1930, according to Grover Bales, Oldsmobile-Viking dealer in Greene County. The dealers, particularly those located in cities where automobile shows are being held report a keen interest by the public in the new automobile creations.

Although the greater portion of the thickly populated sections of the country experiences unfavorable weather at this season and outdoor conditions do not encourage thoughts of motoring, the public is automobile-minded, the Oldsmobile-Viking dealers report. This is manifested in their attendance at the automobile shows and the interest they are displaying in the mechanical improvements and new body lines of the cars.

The new fully enclosed, internal expanding four wheel brakes also have found favor, as have the new easy steering mechanism and other mechanical advancements incorporated in the 1930 Oldsmobile.

This year the Viking Eight is making its official debut at automobile shows, having been introduced too late last year to be displayed at these exhibits. It, like its companion, the Oldsmobile, is reported to have attracted much attention. Particular interest is being shown in the several innovations in automobile design introduced by the Viking, which include the first mono-block for a V-type eight cylinder engine, horizontal valve mechanism, down draft manifold and new ideas in lubrication and cooling.

In view of the interest now being shown by the public in 1930 automobiles, Oldsmobile-Viking dealers are preparing for an excellent spring business. They are in-

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENTS but NOT ONE CHANGE in FUNDAMENTALS

Oldsmobile now presents important improvements and refinements which add definitely to Oldsmobile's well known beauty, comfort and performance. Yet the characteristic lines of the car have not been changed . . . and its fundamental engine and chassis design is not radically different.

In appearance, Oldsmobile is longer—lower—smarter. Increased roominess, longer-wearing upholstery, and deeper, more comfortable seats add further comfort and luxury to the interiors. Improved carburetion, more responsive steering, and improved, fully-enclosed four-wheel brakes increase the efficiency and safety of Oldsmobile's reliable engine and sturdy chassis.

The sum of these advancements is substantially increased value—an even finer car of low price. Look at all cars in Oldsmobile's field and inspect them critically. Check feature for feature and point for point. And you will find in Oldsmobile many reasons for making it the car of your choice.

A MEDIUM PRICED 90° V-TYPE EIGHT. . . A REAL ACHIEVEMENT IN MOTOR CAR DESIGN

The Automobile Show gives you the greatest opportunity of the year—to see all cars—to compare them—and to judge value on a fair and impartial basis. The Viking 90-degree V-type Eight, announced during the past year, and hailed by engineers, automotive critics and the motoring public alike as a remarkable achievement in motor car design and value-giving, is now making its first appearance at the Automobile Shows.

In addition to smooth, flexible eight-cylinder performance, the Viking offers the advantages of generous size and wheelbase, luxurious riding comfort, richly appointed interiors, and high quality in every detail.

See this remarkable Eight at the Show—examine it in detail—and compare it with other cars. Learn how much it offers you and at what moderate cost. Then decide definitely to drive this car and discover for yourself what infinitely fine performance it provides.

PRODUCTS OF GENERAL MOTORS

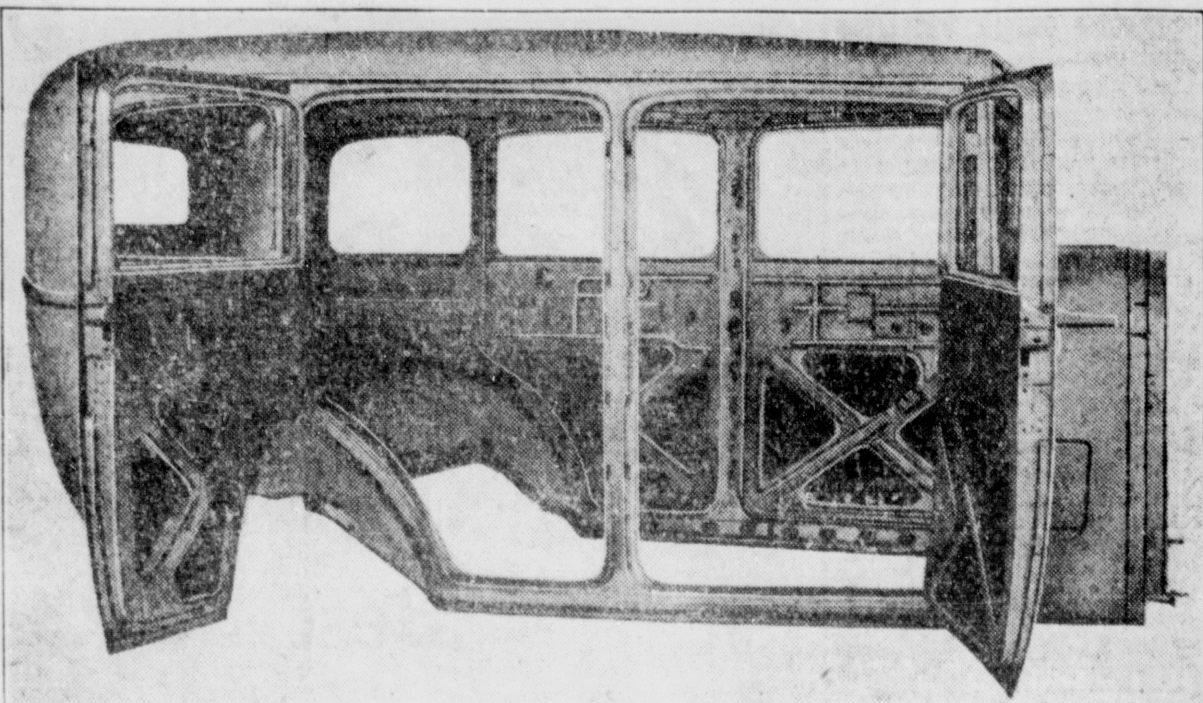

DE SOTO OFFERING
ALL-METAL BODY AS
FEATURE OF MODELS

A surprise feature of the sensational Chrysler-built De Soto Straight Eight, priced around $1,000, is the new all-metal body. Of mono-piece construction—strong, permanently silent, safe—it represents a radical advance in the principles of body building, made possible by close collaboration of chassis and body engineers, working together to produce a complete automobile.

Composed of but four major parts, each die-stamped from a single plate of steel, and these welded together into a jointless whole, this new De Soto Straight Eight body presents a remarkable combination of strength, lightness and roominess. It offers a trimness and beauty of line that is seldom attained by ordinary body-building methods. It has low, racy lines and simple, graceful curves, executed with a sweep that duplicates the engraver's skill upon a plate of precious metal.

The body and chassis of the new car have been designed as a unit. Body and chassis supplement each other in giving strength to the whole car, and, both being of steel, they provide a mutual flexibility that is impossible where the two entirely different mediums of wood and steel are employed, as in the old-type construction. The heavy wooden sills, that cause the ordinary body to rest upon the chassis as a frame house rests upon its foundation, have been eliminated. The new body is bolted directly to the chassis and is an integral part of it.

De Soto Straight Eight Silent Steel Mono-Piece Body

Low center of gravity, giving increased safety, and permanent quietness are two important features of this body. It is made of only four main parts, welded together into a single unit. Heavy top and foundation sills are eliminated.

This elimination of body sills brings the car closer to the ground

—almost two inches lower than the average. This means a marvellously safe car, in a day when safety is attracting the attention of every one who has anything to do with traffic. The lowered center of gravity also means a steadier and easier-steering car, one that holds true to a straightway course and takes turns without skidding. It has increased braking efficiency. When the self-equalizing, hydraulic brakes are applied, the new eight just settles down quietly in an easy stop.

In order to test the value of a low center of gravity, one of these cars was rolled sideways down a steep hill. It landed on its wheels, cat-like, topside up.

The weight of the passengers is carried on the chassis, not by the body, as in the common kind. The steel shell provides shelter and protection, the chassis carries the load. Relieved of this burden, there are no heavy beams, sills and cumbersome bracing to take up room. Thus from two to four inches more headroom is provided, although the overall height is less. In every part of the body this gain in space is evident—more leg room, greater width, thinner door posts and slimmer corner posts.

Because of its welded construction, making the four body walls one continuous piece, no rattles or squeaks need ever annoy the passengers in the De Soto Straight Eight. It is permanently quiet. There are no seams, glued joints, or cross-members to work loose and create noise. It is economical in this respect, as service attention to silence rattles is necessary. The doors are perfectly fitting and precisely hung, and will remain so.

The minute you step on the accelerator of the new Chevrolet Six, you realize that Chevrolet has again introduced a new standard of performance into the low-price field.

You will notice, first of all, its smooth, silent flow of power. In every gear—at every speed—the refined 6-cylinder valve-in-head motor is unusually quiet and vibrationless. It has a new 48-pound crankshaft, new bronze-bushed pistons and positive lubrication of all the bearings!

You will find smooth, stable roadability at every speed. Mile after mile—over good roads and bad—you glide along in uninterrupted comfort. The four long semi-elliptic springs are under the cushioned control of Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers!

You will discover even greater reserves of power. The car responds eagerly to the touch of the throttle, sweeps you to the lead from a traffic stop, masters steep hills and sandy roads with energy to spare. The motor has been increased in capacity to 50 horsepower.

And, above all, you are sure to be surprised at the price. For, with all its extra quality—all its advancements and refinements—the new Chevrolet Six is offered at greatly reduced prices!
